JAPS RUSH 100,000 TO BURMA

Stranded Driver Killed Seeking Help

MERCHANT, 55, RUN DOWN ON PARK AVENUE

Wife Sees Crestline Business Man Fatally Hurt After Car Runs Out of Gas.

SOUGHT RIDE TO TOWN

Young Driver Says Lights of Another Car Blinded Him at Time of Accident.

A 55-year-old Crestline man was killed last night when struck by an automobile while his wife sat in their stalled automobile and watched him attempt to flag a passing motorist at Park avenue east and Shady lane.

He was Julius Rosenbaum, Crestline merchant. He was struck by an automobile operated by Ellsworth Ulmer, 22, of New Washington R. D. 1, at 11:45 p. m.

Police said Rosenbaum had run out of gasoline and was standing in the road trying to get a ride in a passing car back to a filling station.

His death was the second traffic death in Mansfield in 1942 and the third in Richland county. Last year at this time, there had been no traffic deaths in the city but 12 in the county.

Ulmer told police that he had swerved into the center of the road to avoid a car parked at the curb and failed to see Rosenbaum until he was only a few feet from him. The driver also reported that another car was passing at the time and that its lights blinded him.

Paul Marquart, Crestline, driver of the car which passed, told police he had seen someone standing in the road just a short while before the accident and turned back when he saw that Rosenbaum had been hit. Marquart said that Rosenbaum was standing in the center of the road, police reported.

Police said Rosenbaum and his wife had been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Selfman, 253 Glessner avenue, and had left the Selfman home shortly before the accident.

Commander Says U. S. Airmen Had Field Day During Spectacular Raids Over Philippines

Spread Havoc Among Enemy and Rescue Army Officers

By STUART LEGGE
(INS Correspondent)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, In Australia — Describing the raids by American bombing planes which he led against the Japanese in the Philippines, Brig. Gen. Ralph Royce declared today that he and his men enjoyed a field day attacking the Japs.

"For two days we had something in the nature of a picnic—it was a field day," the gallant air commander said.

Besides causing heavy losses to Japanese shipping and blasting enemy bases in the Philippines, it was revealed that the American bomber squadron brought back several high officers of the United States army air corps and a number of other men who had been stranded in the Philippines.

Gen. Royce disclosed that 110 tons of bombs had been dropped on the Japanese. The squadron brought back to Australia 24 passengers, including 10 crew members of the single bomber which was lost.

Lieut. Col. John Davies, Gen. Royce's pilot, related how the Americans quickly disposed of a Jap seaplane which "pestered" one of the United States bombers.

Ranging alongside of the Jap seaplane, Davies said, the captain shouted:

"We're going to get that guy."

Then he added:

"We did. I blew him to hell."

Gen. Royce disclosed that Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his staff prepared the plan and organized for the raids on the Philippines. "The Japanese were completely surprised and thrown into panic," he said.

In the most amazing long-distance bombing attack of all time, American flying fortresses (below) based in northern Australia, flew a total of 4,000 miles to blast Japanese strongholds on the Philippine islands (see map). At right is Brig. Gen. Ralph Joyce, who personally led the attack. An army spokesman claimed it was one of the few times in history that a general has personally directed and participated in an aerial attack.

"Their radio used up the ether a whole day trying to find out from where our bombers were coming.

"The Japanese were in such a panic that it was not until the second day that the attacking planes began to experience opposition. Then there was plenty of anti-aircraft fire.

"The raids were carried out from heights of 2,000 to 5,000 feet."

Gen. Royce, dynamic chief of staff to Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett, commander in chief of United Nations air forces, said

Two Anti-Nazi Attacks Flare In Paris as Pierre Laval Assumes Power.

FORMS NEW CABINET

Collaborationist Guarded By Police; Expected to Name Ministers Tonight.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—French Ambassador Henry-Haye arranged today to call at the state department (at 6 p. m. EWT) and speculation about his purpose included the thought that he might be bringing a declaration of Vichy France solidarity with Hitler's "new order."

(By United Press)

VICHY, France — A fresh wave of terrorism broke out today in Nazi-held France as Pierre Laval prepared to assume full power over the Vichy government with a cabinet of his own choosing.

Two anti-German attacks occurred in Paris, shortly after Laval's departure from the city and his return to Vichy to set up his new cabinet. Two other attacks were reported in the northern industrial region.

A troop train carrying German troops on leave was derailed by sabateurs and 40 persons were reported killed.

Laval was protected by personal bodyguards and strong police cordons as he conferred here with Marshal Henri Philippe Petain and Jean Francois Darlan who, after stepping aside as vice-premier to make way for Laval, may be named admiral of France, corresponding to a field marshal in the army.

Laval may announce his new cabinet tonight, and issue a statement as to his policy in dealing with the United States on the one hand and Germany on the other.

Returning from Paris at 12:25 p. m. (6:25 a. m. EWT), accompanied by Ferdnand de Brinon, Vichy diplomatic envoy to Paris,

Columns Strike At Shan States In New Attack

40 Enemy Vessels Sighted Off Rangoon As Foe Prepares for Decisive Blow Against British, Chinese at India Defense Bridgehead.

(By United Press)

CHUNGKING—Japan is sending five and a half divisions, probably more than 100,000 men, to reinforce her spreading Burma offensive for a sudden and decisive blow against British and Chinese troops defending the bridgehead to India, it was reported semi-officially today.

A Chinese military spokesman revealed that more than 40 Japanese vessels and transports had been sighted near Rangoon last Sunday. He said these vessels alone were estimated to be carrying at least two full divisions destined for action in Burma.

The spokesman's report came as six enemy columns pressed forward on a 240-mile invasion front from the Irrawaddy river to the mountainous Shan states, threatening envelopment of China's central Burma defenders.

With outnumbered British forces backed up to the gateway of the western oil fields and the Chinese hard pressed on the banks of the Sittang river, the Japanese opened a third drive.

Through the southern Shan states from Thailand were moving columns, signalizing a new attempt to crush Allied resistance before spring rains turn southern Burma into a quagmire.

One force was driving westward from Chiengmai, Thailand, toward the Burmese tin mines around Mawchi, 35 miles east of Toungoo, where sporadic fighting has occurred for the two weeks. From Chiengmai, the second column was moving northwest across the Salween river toward Mawkmai, 40 miles beyond the Thai frontier.

These new Japanese columns imperiled China's fifth and sixth armies under Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell. It was believed the one driving northwest from Chiangmai would attempt to cut off the Chinese on the Sittang front, split China's armies in the Shan states from those holding out above Toungoo and cut the new Allied supply lines between India and China by blocking the railroad between Mandalay and Lashio.

Should the Japanese reach Mawkmai, they would be only 160 miles southeast of Mandalay, temporary Burmese capital, and 100 miles east and slightly north of Pyinmana below where the Chinese were fighting fiercely against two forces pushing northward on either side of the Sittang river.

The new battle front along the Sittang now centers in the Myohla and Chagaya areas on the Mandalay railway about 40 miles south of Toungoo and 20 miles below Pyinmana, which divides Burma's southern or "wet" area from the dry north central plains.

American Fliers Help Hold Lines

CHUNGKING—(INS)—With the yeoman assistance of the American volunteer group's fighting pilots, the Chinese defenders of Burma today were believed to be maintaining their lines intact in the Changaya sector of the Swa river front despite ceaseless battering by superior Japanese forces.

The Japanese, heavily reinforced and possessing substantial quantities of warplanes and tanks, were unable to make any

MANSFIELD 'C.O.' GETS 3 YEARS

Sentenced in Cleveland For Failure to Report to His Draft Board.

A 25-year-old Mansfield resident, who refused to comply with selective service regulations, was sentenced to three years in prison today after conviction today in federal court at Cleveland.

He is Henry C. Parman, 25, of Newman street, who was arrested by Mansfield police on Dec. 24, 1941, after he had failed to report to his draft board.

Parman claimed exemption from the draft as a conscientious objector on the grounds that he was an ordained minister and was the first draft violator to be given a jury trial in Cleveland.

Parman, when questioned last December, said that he had communicated with federal draft headquarters frequently concerning exemption but that it had been rejected. He failed to report to the local draft board, however, and according to draft authorities failed to report for duty later at

FDR Retains Landis, But Sets Up Advisory Board.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Roosevelt reorganized the Office of Civilian Defense today, retaining James M. Landis as director, but creating a civilian Defense board to advise and assist him.

The war and navy departments were given representation on this board and a presidential executive order said the director "shall" carry out functions of his office with the advice and assistance of the board.

Landis will be chairman of the Civilian Defense board. In addition to the secretaries of war and navy, the attorney general and Paul V. McNutt, the director of the Office of Defense Health and welfare services, will serve on it.

Mercury Heading For Record, Hits 75 Before Noon

The mercury climbed right up to mid-summer levels today and Mansfielders went about their lawn mowing and garden making in earnest.

Helped along by a bright sun, the temperature stood at 75 at noon today, one degree below yesterday's top, and it was expected to reach a new mark for the season this afternoon. Lowest reading last night was 57 degrees.

Strong winds probably will blow showers into the Mansfield area from the west tonight, the weatherman said.

Although the average temperature in Mansfield for the past 24 hours was nearly 20 degrees above normal, it set no record for April, the weather figures show.

For 11 days last April—from April 9 to 20—the mercury reached 70 degrees or higher and on two days it climbed to 80.

Advise Roosevelt Sales Tax Needed for War Fund

Congressmen Say Levy Necessary to Raise 7 Billion Revenue; President Rejects Forced Savings Plan.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Congressional tax leaders said today that President Roosevelt has been told "in so many words" that it is "extremely doubtful" that even $7,000,000,000 in war revenues can be raised without a general federal sales tax.

The president, in return, has assured legislators that he has definitely turned down proposals by Price Administrator Leon Henderson and other advisors to boost the tax goal above that figure and institute a plan of compulsory personal savings in order to combat inflation.

These developments became known as Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau arranged to bring before the tax-writing house ways and means committee two officials of General Motors corporation to explain that company's plan of inducing the purchase of defense bonds by voluntary payroll deductions on the part of the workers.

Morgenthau has always opposed compulsory savings on the grounds that voluntary bond selling will accomplish the same purpose in a more "American way," and it was believed to have been the cabinet minister's insistence on this that led the president to refuse to recommend that people be compelled to save as they are in England.

The president's personal opposition to a sales tax was be-

CONTINUE RAIL WRECK INQUIRY

Officials Are Still on Scene of Crash Near Plymouth; Traffic Resumed.

Baltimore and Ohio railroad officials today continued their investigation of the freight train accident near Plymouth yesterday in which one man was killed and three other crew members injured.

H. H. Harsh, division superintendent, and A. W. Colnott, division trainmaster, both of Newark, remained on the scene today pending completion of repair work. Traffic was resumed Wednesday midnight when workers finished relaying the 200 feet of track torn up in the accident, but crews were still at work today on the roadbed.

The two locomotives and eight freight cars which were derailed were moved to the road's car shops in Willard for repair work.

Condition of the three injured trainmen—Kenneth Holmes, 29, Harry Milligan, 46, and Calvert Hines, 43, all of Newark,— was described as "satisfactory" today by attaches of Shelby Memorial hospital. Carl Back, a conductor, also of Newark, was killed.

Road officials withheld a formal statement on cause of the accident until their investigation is completed. The unofficial version given by trainmen was that a freight train headed by two locomotives plowed into eight cars standing on the track between Shelby and Willard.

OPA Hints Ceiling Change Will Lower Pork Price.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Charging that several merchandisers took advantage of advance and "in several instances confidential" information on pork price fixing, the office of price administration has revised its ceiling on wholesale cuts.

As a result, Price Administrator Leo Henderson said late yesterday that there might be a "slight decrease" in retail pork prices.

The revision requires all sellers to compute top prices on the basis of the highest levels prevailing between Feb. 16 and Feb. 20, plus any increase reflected in Chicago carload trading spot market quotations to the March 3-7 period, which was the range selected originally.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Sales of heating and plumbing equipment for use in non-defense building or unnecessary repairs were stopped today by the war production board.

The frozen stocks will be sold only to consumers who have preference rating orders for defense work. Officials said present inventories will provide about a quarter of this year's requirements for war construction and defense housing.

FIFTH DAY: British Continue Air Offensive on Ruhr, Coast

(By United Press)

LONDON—Britain's greatest aerial offensive of the war entered its fifth straight day today as Royal Air Force planes, some piloted by Americans and Canadians, attacked the French invasion coast after the fourth major raid in six nights on the Ruhr, heart of German war industry.

From dawn to dark yesterday British planes had attacked French occupied territory; they attacked through the night while long range planes were attacking the Ruhr, and they were out again soon after dawn for daylight raids.

The night raids extended not only through the German Ruhr but to airdromes in the Netherlands and Belgium and docks at Le Havre and St. Nazaire on the French coast.

Four planes were missing after the night attack.

Hunreds of tons of bombs a day were now being dropped by the Royal Air Force. Targets of every sort were being attacked throughout the day and night. So terrific was the attack that there were few challenges now by German fighter planes and the British bombing planes were attacked at low level.

The center of this morning's daylight attack was the Dunkirk-Boulogne district. German guns put up a terrific barrage as the planes hurled bombs at targets along the coast and for miles inland.

Small forces of German planes bombed points along the northeast England coast during the

RETORT: Corregidor's Guns Smash Enemy Troops on Bataan

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The war department reported today that Corregidor's guns scored hits on troop concentrations and truck columns on the Philippines' Bataan peninsula, and that enemy ammunition dumps were hit and blown up.

Japanese casualties were believed to have been numerous, a communique said.

Fierce fighting continued on the island of Cebu, more than 300 miles to the south, where the Japanese last week landed an invasion force estimated at 12,000, which was supported by dive bombers and tanks.

Corregidor was raided five times yesterday, the communique said, but the defenders' anti-aircraft artillery forced the Japanese planes as on most other occasions to fly so high bombing was ineffective.

Lieutenant General Jonathan M. Wainwright, the Philippine commander, reported that in the week since April 9 the fortress island had been raided 65 times, but the war department said that "despite the almost constant bombing, the damage to military installations has been relatively slight, and the morale of the troops is unimpaired."

The fortress island also was shelled intermittently yesterday by enemy batteries on the north and south shores of Manila bay.

Since the Japanese invasion

ROAD JOBS HIT BY WAR EFFORT

Paving Projects Cancelled By Restrictions; No Bidder on Richland Project.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Effects of the federal government's restrictions on non-defense construction was seen today in the state highway department's 1942 resurfacing program when three paving projects with an estimated cost of $96,100 were cancelled.

In addition, the highway department announced that no bids were received on seven resurfacing projects, one of them in Richland, Ashland and Crawford counties. The project called for bituminous treatment of State Routes 58, 60, 98 and 61. Route 58 runs from Ashland to Lorain, Route 60 from Ashland to Vermillion, Route 98 from Plymouth to Bucyrus, and Route 61 is the Plymouth-Shelby-Crestline road. (The latter is the only one in Richland county.)

The cancelled projects included paving seventh-tenths of a mile of the Columbus-Marysville road at an estimated cost of $38,200, paving of six-tenths of a mile of the Marion-Waldo road at a cost of $41,400 and resurfacing 390 feet of State Route 285 in Noble county at a proposed cost of $16,500.

State highway officials said there was "still some question" whether the three projects came within the limitations of the restrictions of non-defense construction. Revised estimates on the jobs will be submitted at the next letting if it is decided these projects do not fall within government restrictions, it was said.

TROOP TRAIN DERAILED, 40 THOUGHT DEAD

Two Anti-Nazi Attacks Flare In Paris as Pierre Laval Assumes Power.

Laval went at once to Petain's office to make arrangement for his assumption of office as full premier in charge of foreign and interior affairs.

He arranged to hold a second and probably definitive conference with Petain and retiring vice-premier Darlan in mid-afternoon. The ministry already was taking form, it was reported.

It was reported but not confirmed that Darlan, who retains control of the armed forces, might be named admiral of France, which corresponds to a field marshal in the army

It was understood that immediately after assuming power, probably during the day, Laval would make a statement of his policy regards relations with the United States on one hand and Germany on the other.

(The Garman radio reported that Marshal Petain would appeal to the French nation incident to an explanation of the reasons for Laval's dramatic destoration to power after 16 months in eclipse.)

Laval returned from Paris last night after spending the day conferring with political leaders including Georges Bonnet, a prewar foreign minister; Anatole de Monzie, former finance minister; Marcel Deat, an ardent collaborationist, and Dr. Alexis Carrel, retired member of the Rockefeller Institute for medical research.

It was reported here that Carrell might be invited to become Laval's public health minister.

Political quarters reported also that Adrien Marquet, right wing leader and mayor of Bordeaux, might be made secretary of labor.

They reported also that Laval was likely to give prominent representation in his cabinet to parliamentary leaders of the right wing

(Petain and outgoing Vice-Premier Darlan are bitter enemies of the politicians of the third republic and had none in their cabinet.)

It was freely predicted that Laval would try as soon as he took office to convince the United States that he did not want a break in relations Informants pointed out, in this connection, that a bitter statement in which Vichy rejected as insulting a United States note on its consular recognition of free French Brazzaville, West Africa, was issued by the Darlan regime.

Americans Urged To Get Out of France

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Relations between the United States and Vichy, France deteriorated rapidly today, with multiplying signs of a tragic denouement.

All American residents were urged to leave unoccupied France and congressmen expressed concern that Hitler would acquire the French fleet.

Acting Secretary of State Welles announced that he would receive the French diplomat today and some observers thought that Henrye-Haye's mission might be to deliver official notification of a new and openly pro-Nazi collaborationist policy under the premiership of Pierre Laval

Senators who have been watching the fast changing picture in unoccupied France meanwhile joined in gloomy forecasts that the French fleet might soon be aligned with Axis naval forces.

"Hitler will take the French fleet now whenever he decides the time is right," said Senator Lucas (D-Ill.,) a member of the senate naval committee. He has been after it through pressure for many months. We can expect direct action now at any time."

Similar views were expressed by Senators Bone (D-Wash), Norris (Ind-Neb) and Gillette (D-Iowa), in seperate interviews, with the latter urging that the United States and her Allies get the jump by holding all French vessels and supplies in port and occupying the numerous French insular possessions in the western hemisphere.

Axis seizure of the French fleet was indeed the general foreboding of all senators in touch with the uncertain career of the Vichy government because of the return to power of Laval, ardent collaborationist.

There have been critical moments before in the tortuous course of French-American diplomacy since the dark day in 1940 when the aged Marshal Philippe Petain asked the Germans for an armistice.

But this time developments have moved toward a showdown with a rapidity causing more than usual concern in official quarters here.

Report M'Arthur Still Lacks Word

U. S ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA — (AP) — A spokesman at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said today that the general still had not received a directive from Washington formally defining the scope and powers of the supreme command in the southwest Pacific war zone.

Expect Statement On M'Arthur Status

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Military and diplomatic circles today anticipated an official announcement from the White House or the war department clearly defining the jurisdiction of Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the southwest Pacific and naming the personnel of his United Nations command

Red Guerrillas Bag 17 German Planes

MOSCOW —(INS)— Red guerilla fighters added another brilliant chapter to their spectacular history today when they surrounded and attacked a German airdrome on the Bryansk front, setting afire four bombers and 13 troop-carrying planes.

Reports reaching Moscow said that the Germans were panicked by the daring thrust, which came in the wake of a Red army push that was said to have smashed into the second German defense line of the Bryansk area.

The blows against Bryansk were apparently a part of a pincers movement on the strategic city of Smolensk, once the Russian front headquarters of Adolf Hitler and unquestionably one of the most vital points in the Nazi defense line.

On an unidentified sector of the long front, the Russians were reported officially to have repulsed a heavy counter-attack into which the Nazis hurled fresh reserves, supported by tanks and artillery.

ROAD JOBS HIT BY WAR EFFORT

Paving Projects Cancelled By Restrictions; No Bidder on Richland Project.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Effects of the federal government's restrictions on non-defense construction was seen today in the state highway department's 1942 resurfacing program when three paving projects with an estimated cost of $96,100 were cancelled.

In addition, the highway department announced that no bids were received on seven resurfacing projects, one of them in Richland, Ashland and Crawford counties. The project called for bituminous treatment of State Routes 58, 60, 98 and 61. Route 58 runs from Ashland to Lorain, Route 60 from Ashland to Vermillion, Route 98 from Plymouth to Bucyrus, and Route 61 is the Plymouth-Shelby-Crestline road. (The latter is the only one in Richland county.)

The cancelled projects included paving seventh-tenths of a mile of the Columbus-Marysville road at an estimated cost of $38,200, paving of six-tenths of a mile of the Marion-Waldo road at a cost of $41,400 and resurfacing 390 feet of State Route 285 in Noble county at a proposed cost of $16,500.

State highway officials said there was "still some question" whether the three projects came within the limitations of the restrictions of non-defense construction. Revised estimates on the jobs will be submitted at the next letting if it is decided these projects do not fall within government restrictions, it was said.

TROOP TRAIN DERAILED, 40 THOUGHT DEAD

Two Anti-Nazi Attacks Flare In Paris as Pierre Laval Assumes Power.

Laval went at once to Petain's office to make arrangement for his assumption of office as full premier in charge of foreign and interior affairs.

He arranged to hold a second and probably definitive conference with Petain and retiring vice-premier Darlan in mid-afternoon. The ministry already was taking form, it was reported.

It was reported but not confirmed that Darlan, who retains control of the armed forces, might be named admiral of France, which corresponds to a field marshal in the army.

It was understood that immediately after assuming power, probably during the day, Laval would make a statement of his policy regards relations with the United States on one hand and Germany on the other.

(The Garman radio reported that Marshal Petain would appeal to the French nation incident to an explanation of the reasons for Laval's dramatic destoration to power after 16 months in eclipse.)

Laval returned from Paris last night after spending the day conferring with political leaders including Georges Bonnet, a prewar foreign minister; Anatole de Monzie, former finance minister; Marcel Deat, an ardent collaborationist, and Dr. Alexis Carrel, retired member of the Rockefeller Institute for medical research.

It was reported here that Carrell might be invited to become Laval's public health minister.

Political quarters reported also that Adrien Marquet, right wing leader and mayor of Bordeaux, might be made secretary of labor.

They reported also that Laval was likely to give prominent representation in his cabinet to parliamentary leaders of the right wing.

(Petain and outgoing Vice-Premier Darlan are bitter enemies of the politicians of the third republic and had none in their cabinet.)

It was freely predicted that Laval would try as soon as he took office to convince the United States that he did not want a break in relations Informants pointed out, in this connection, that a bitter statement in which Vichy rejected as insulting a United States note on its consular recognition of free French Brazzaville, West Africa, was issued by the Darlan regime.

Americans Urged To Get Out of France

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Relations between the United States and Vichy, France, deteriorated rapidly today, with multiplying signs of a tragic denouement.

All American residents were urged to leave unoccupied France and congressmen expressed concern that Hitler would acquire the French fleet.

Vichy's Ambassador Gaston Henrye-Haye sought an appointment at the state department here

Acting Secretary of State Welles announced that he would receive the French diplomat today and some observers thought that Henrye-Haye's mission might be to deliver official notification of a new and openly pro-Nazi collaborationist policy under the premiership of Pierre Laval.

Senators who have been watching the fast changing picture in unoccupied France meanwhile joined in gloomy forecasts that the French fleet might soon be aligned with Axis naval forces.

"Hitler will take the French fleet now whenever he decides the time is right," said Senator Lucas (D-Ill.,) a member of the senate naval committee. He has been after it through pressure for many months. We can expect direct action now at any time."

Similar views were expressed by Senators Bone (D-Wash), Norris (Ind-Neb) and Gillette (D-Iowa), in seperate interviews, with the latter urging that the United States and her Allies get the jump by holding all French vessels and supplies in port and occupying the numerous French insular possessions in the western hemisphere.

Axis seizure of the French fleet was indeed the general foreboding of all senators in touch with the uncertain career of the Vichy government because of the return to power of Laval, ardent collaborationist.

There have been critical moments before in the tortuous course of French-American diplomacy since the dark day in 1940 when the aged Marshal Philippe Petain asked the Germans for an armistice.

But this time developments have moved toward a showdown with a rapidity causing more than usual concern in official quarters here.

(In Washington representatives of the United States, Australia and New Zealand said after a Pacific war council meeting yesterday that there was absolutely no hitch to MacArthur's command, and reiterated President Roosevelt's statement that MacArthur was in supreme command.)

Expect Statement On M'Arthur Status

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Military and diplomatic circles today anticipated an official announcement from the White House or the war department clearly defining the jurisdiction of Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the southwest Pacific and naming the personnel of his United Nations command.

These sources said such a statement would end all question concerning the scope of MacArthur's authority to carry on the war in that area while preparing for the expected offensive to drive the Japanese out of conquered territory.

night. There were numerous casualties and some damage, the air ministry admitted, mostly confined to one town where the bodies of seven persons trapped in debris were recovered by rescue squads.

Red Guerrillas Bag 17 German Planes

MOSCOW —(INS)— Red guerilla fighters added another brilliant chapter to their spectacular history today when they surrounded and attacked a German airdrome on the Bryansk front, setting afire four bombers and 13 troop-carrying planes.

Reports reaching Moscow said that the Germans were panicked by the daring thrust, which came in the wake of a Red army push that was said to have smashed into the second German defense line of the Bryansk area.

The blows against Bryansk were apparently a part of a pincers movement on the strategic city of Smolensk, once the Russian front headquarters of Adolf Hitler and unquestionably one of the most vital points in the Nazi defense line.

On an unidentified sector of the long front, the Russians were reported officially to have repulsed a heavy counter-attack into which the Nazis hurled fresh reserves, supported by tanks and artillery.

Nazis Admit Reds Break Ilmen Line

BERLIN—(By Official German Wireless)—(INS)—A special broadcast by the German high command admitted today that Soviet forces had temporarily broken the German line northeast of Lake Ilmen

The high command communique asserted that Soviet attacks had been repulsed and ground gained in local German thrusts.

Russians Continue Advance At Bryansk

LONDON — (INS) — Following up a break through the German first line defenses in the vicinity of Bryansk, Soviet troops captured a fortified settlement, killed 455 Germans and continued their advance, Exchange Telegraph reported from Kuibyshev today.

That's New Name for Uncle Sam's Men In Armored Forces.

FORT KNOX, Ky.—(UP)—Those rough-and-ready fighting men of the nation's armored forces have a new name. The men who strike the enemy in tanks and other mechanized battle weapons will be known as America's armoraiders in the future.

The term "armoraiders" became the official nickname for the armored forces today as the result of a contest for enlisted men who got tired of hearing themselves referred to as "panzer units" and "blitz troops," which are enemy propaganda terms.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, APRIL 16, 1942.

The formula for making a better world is so simple that everybody has probably thought of it.

The point has been reached at which any fraction of a billion dollars is considered small change.

Better save any metal tube you empty of toothpaste, or other contents—you are required to turn in one tube to get another—but it needn't be the same kind or size.

Stop Spread of Sedition!

ACTION to bar from the mails a weekly publication known as "Social Justice," founded on principles expounded by Father Charles E. Coughlin, of Detroit, should not be mistaken for an attack on "freedom of speech" or freedom of the press, as guaranteed under the Constitution.

The fact that the utterances of Father Coughlin and the un-American preachments of Social Justice were tolerated during peacetime serves as ample evidence of the extreme to which this country will go in giving free rein to public expression of minority views.

But the liberties which a majority extends to minorities under peacetime conditions were never intended to license a spread of propaganda and sedition throughout the country in time of war.

However sincere Father Coughlin and his successors in the conduct of Social Justice may be, it is recognized that this publication, which he founded, has indulged in a campaign of misinformation and misrepresentation which tends to disunity and weakening of the nation's war efforts.

Activity of the government in quieting people and suppressing publications which serve the purposes of the nation's enemies should not stop with a few arrests and the banning of Social Justice—it should carry on to whatever extent is necessary to make all propagandists of un-Americanism understand that seditious activities are barred for the duration of war.

Civic Music Series To Continue

MANY will be glad to note that the Mansfield Civic Music association is going ahead with plans for next season's concert series, in anticipation of again bringing to this city the high grade of musical entertainment that has marked previous offerings.

While the future cannot be foreseen, it is necessary and advisable to look ahead, and to plan ahead. This is the season of the year when preliminary steps are taken toward assuring sufficient patronage to warrant contracting for next season's talent and the week starting next Monday has been chosen as the period for renewal of memberships.

Civic Music association concerts of past years have been marked by steadily increasing interest and attendance, until the sale of season tickets has reached capacity of Senior high school auditorium.

Interest in offerings of the association has extended to neighboring cities and towns to such extent as to regularly attract a large out-of-town patronage and distribution of tickets will be in such a way as to again accommodate all who have heretofore held membership.

The beneficial and inspirational influence of good music, especially in times of stress, is so generally recognized as to make it highly gratifying that the people of Mansfield and vicinity are to again be accorded the opportunities for enjoyment and spiritual uplift which the offerings of the Civic Music association provide.

Hugh Johnson, Patriotic American

THE DEATH of General Hugh Johnson removes from the American scene another of the unique characters who have served to express the strong individuality which this country's atmosphere of freedom makes possible.

After a long and creditable military career General Johnson performed valuable service in originating the plan and establishing the rules and policies for the selective draft in 1917.

It was General Johnson, also, who was called upon by President Roosevelt in 1933 to take on the herculean task of administering the ill-fated NRA experiment, in which he continued until the fall of 1934.

During recent years General Johnson wrote a daily newspaper column which was widely syndicated, in which he expressed personal views in characteristic style. These were sometimes commendatory but more often adversely critical of national policies, but always marked by utter frankness and unmistakable sincerity—obviously based on broad experience, military training, knowledge of people and keen analytical ability.

In the course of events leading up to and following America's entry into war the observations and suggestions of General Johnson were especially timely and many regretted that his wisdom and experience were not again called into the service of his country in some position of responsibility for which he was well qualified.

Time To Start Home Gardens

ALTHOUGH there are two schools of thought on the subject of home gardens, this appears to be another of the matters for individual and family decision—with weight of argument on the side of raising at least a few vegetables in a back yard garden, for healthful exercise if not for monetary gain.

It is unfortunate that the coming of spring this year finds so many male gardeners away from home and the women and children unable to do the necessary spading to get a garden started. For in war time there is more need of gardens than usual—vegetable gardens for fresh, wholesome food, and flower gardens for their beauty.

Gardens should be started wherever possible. The mere fact of having fresh, growing things in the yard gives a lift to the spirit and a sense of security. There is a thrill in your first radishes. Children can be taught to enjoy vegetables they have raised themselves. Cabbages, potatoes, turnips and tomatoes, where there is space for them, can help countless thousands of American families carry on, regardless of a tragic world.

And don't forget the flowers. You can plant a few almost anywhere.

The impression is quite general that, for the duration, the master tailors will permit "the well-dressed man" to get by with fewer than twelve suits.

The Cleveland Indians got off to a good start—and through April, as usual, will probably look like sure winners.

MR. HENDERSON'S DIFFICULT TASK

Many Names Suggested for War

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

SUGGESTED names for World Wars I and II are arriving in bales from every corner of the United States.

It will be recalled that President Roosevelt, a few days ago, referred to numerical designations of wars, either in Roman or Arabic figures (like 1 and 2 in the latter classification as insufficiently descriptive of 'em—all right enough as to only a couple of 'em, but as bound to become confusing when the total gets up into scores or more. Furthermore it isn't very stirring to a soldier's imagination to think of himself as serving in a conflict with only a number to identify it; it isn't calculated to fire his imagination, and make him perfectly rabid to lick the enemy, to compare with the thought that he's fighting for life, family, home, country, civilization and everything else worth dying for or at least sacrificing a leg or an arm or an eye in behalf of

So Franklin D. appealed to the public to evolve and agree on some name with plenty of pep in it.

I tried broadcasting the idea through the press, and, believe me, the mail carrier comments on the volume of the response I've been getting in his a. m. and p. m. deliveries ever since.

It's too copious to quote in full, but here are a few samples:

A Few Samples.

The People's War. The War in Defense of Freedom. Mankind's Last War. The Battle for Democracy. MY War. The Liberation War. The War for Peace. The War for Political and Economic Sanity. The Liberty Eclipse War. The War Against Tyranny. God Against the Devil's War. The Good and Evil War.

Calling it a defensive war is open to the objection that we've ceased to think of it as defensive.

OFF-ense is what we're thinking of now.

It's no cinch that it will re-establish permanent peace, either, or that it'll be mankind's last war. We figured that the 1914-18 commotion was the finish of armed strife and it didn't turn out to be. One correspondent makes the point that World Wars I and II weren't two wars, anyway, but just one, with a short recess in the middle of it. He argues that it's quite correct to speak of just "the World war," with due allowance for a distinction between its first and second sessions. However, that doesn't relieve the ultimate complication, if additional sessions are to follow indefinitely.

Another correspondent proposes sending the present muss into history as the World War Finale. But how does he know that it's going to be final? I've abandoned the notion that the series will end with this instalment.

Several more offers are:

The War of Evolution. The War of the Four Freedoms. Just w'r t the four are isn't clarified.

Also:

The Victory War for World Freedom. The War of World Democracy. The Anti-Nazi War. The World Freedom Crusade. The World's Equalizer.

This nomenclature competition is literary in its character.

It's interesting to note, though, that painters and illustrators are taking an artistic hand in it. Names aren't their specialty, but they've been literally mobilized at the job of picturing the situation appropriately.

Man About Manhattan

About People

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The daughter of the late Tony Sarg may change her name from Mary to Tom, for business reasons . . . She still has the Tony Sarg shops to consider, and Tony's newest book, which went to the publishers the day Tony went to the hospital, and came off the press the day he died.

I saw her when she came up from her home in New Hope, and she said the bulk of the shop proprietorship had fallen to her, as her husband, an engineer, was off making airplanes for the government . . . It's a good thing to have at least one engineer in a family of artists," she explained, "somebody with their feet on the ground."

Tony Sarg's estate is in the question mark stage. No one knows just yet if anything was left, although he earned staggering sums with his marionettes and his animated books. Last year his "Surprise" book was second only to "Berlin Diary" as a best seller.

"Tony would be the first to admit he had little business acumen," Mary went on— . . . She always called him Tony, never Dad, or Father . . . "We had lots of money, but it went here and there."

DID you ever see Jan Struthers blush? She hides her face in her hands and then turns her face far far away. I saw her become suddenly and altogether embarrassed over a package of soda bicarbonate. It was during the film of the unrehearsed "Information Please." With Miss Struthers, who was the guest expert, were John Kieran, F. P. A., and Oscar Levant.

Clifton Fadiman then said. "I am going to show you a few scenes that represent magazines. I want you to see if you can identify them."

The first scene showed a man reading a "History of the Soviet Union."

"Red Book," correctly cried John Kieran.

The next scene showed a man reading a paper by a sign that said "Bicarbonate of Soda."

"Gone With the Wind," cried Miss Struthers.

The four men let out a shriek.

Miss Struthers, for one fleeting second, showed her startled countenance to the cameraman and then buried her face in her hands. That almost broke up the screening.

PEOPLE who think they can read character in handwriting are going to have trouble with Marlene Dietrich. This lady correctly letters a few parts of her name and then trails off into meaningless scrawls. You can make out the "Ma" in Marlene and you can find the "tch" in Dietrich, but that is about all . . . Except, as Hy Gardner points out, "when you put m-a with tch you get "match," and that is what Marlene's legs certainly do.

Private Gas Storage Peril.

Innumerable people are indulging in a very dangerous practice, warns the National Board of Fire Underwriters. And the board refers to gasoline storage by individuals in garages, basements, sheds and what not.

Few realize the hazards, the board points out. Most present day containers are improvised, often without suitable caps, present the possibility of vapor accumulation and subsequent explosion. Storage of gasoline without express permission is prohibited by many of the standard fire insurance policies and a claim collection would be very difficult if the gas storage were discovered.

Leakage is still another hazard and so is pouring the stored gas from the container into a car. Tank inlets are designed to permit ready delivery of gas through a nozzle, but the average container will cause a spill. One spark of static electricity is enough to send off a blast.—Minneapolis Star-Journal.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Probing Source of Advance Tips On Moves of Key War Agencies

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Government sleuths are probing a series of mysterious leaks of important information from key war agencies.

On several occasions recently certain Wall Street traders have obtained advance tips on important moves to be made by the War Production Board, the Office of Price Administration and the agriculture department.

In one instance cotton brokers got wind of an agriculture parity price announcement 45 minutes before it was made public. This announcement was supposed to be absolutely secret until publication. The market operators not only learned about it, but used the information for private profit.

The WPB order banning all non-essential building construction also was tipped off in advance to certain members of the building trade. So, too, was the OPA's action imposing a price ceiling on fats and oils, and allowing on increase in wool prices. Word regarding this move leaked out two days before the order was issued.

Under suspicion for these leaks are certain dollar-a-year men, who while not directly connected with these matters, were in a position to learn about them and to tip off business friends.

Isolationist Pow-Wow.

ON THE day that Gen. Douglas MacArthur was appointed supreme commander of the embattled Southwest Pacific, two very interesting secret meetings took place in Chicago.

The first was held in the private office of Col. Robert McCormick, publisher of the rabidly isolationist Chicago Tribune. Present in addition to McCormick were his cousin, Capt. Joseph Medill Patterson, publisher of the New York Daily News, and Col. Charles Lindbergh.

The three men were closeted together for several hours. They then went to the Chicago club, where they were joined by Gen. Robert Wood, former head of the America First Committee, now a high officer in the Chicago office of U. S. army ordnance.

The four men discussed the war situation, plans relating to this year's crucial congressional elections, Wendell Willkie, and Lindbergh's future plans. Several weeks later he got a job with Henry Ford.

Note: While keeping out of the limelight in the last few months Washington's isolationist generalissimos meet frequently for strategy pow-wows. Their last get-together was at the Massachusetts Avenue mansion of Mrs. Alice Longworth.

Guinea Pig Gas Ration.

IT HASN'T been announced yet, but the state of Maine probably will be used as a guinea pig to test the rationing of gasoline.

Frank Bane of the Office of Price Administration recently conferred with the Maine congressional delegation, and subsequently sent a proposal to Augusta for approval of the governor and executive council.

The proposal would set up gas rationing in Maine on May 1, one month earlier than in other eastern states, to iron the wrinkles out of the system.

Maine was chosen as the guinea pig because of its isolated position. It is the only state which has only one other state contiguous to it—New Hampshire. Thus the problem of bootlegging across state boundaries can be more easily handled—especially since most of the traffic between New Hampshire and Maine follows a single highway, U. S. Route 1, which crosses the line at Portsmouth, N. H., to Kittery, Me.

Petroleum Coordinator Ickes said last week that card rationing might be avoided by cutting down deliveries to service stations. But the price administration is proceeding with preparations for rationing.

Note: Maine hopes to prevent collapse of its tremendous tourist business by getting an allowance of 100 gallons for each tourist coming into the state. But the problem of tires remains unsolved.

Nevada's Bunker.

ONE BLUSTERY winter night 30 years ago, a small boy stood with his parents and nine brothers and sisters in a farmyard near Las Vegas, Nevada, heartbroken, watching their home go up in flames.

Berkeley Bunker was five years old then but the tragic scene is as vivid to him as if it had happened yesterday. All the family had to its name after the last smoldering embers expired was a piano—somehow saved from the fire—and a five-dollar bill in Mrs. Bunker's pocketbook.

It took courage to pull through an experience like that, but in Nevada the Bunkers are noted for their courage. That was why Nevada neighbors weren't surprised when young Berkeley, now a United States senator, took the floor last week and gave RFC Chairman Jesse Jones the most scathing tongue-lashing of his long career.

The Truman committee had also denounced the war contract which Jones gave to Basic Magnesium, Inc. But the 35-year-old Bunker, a member of the senate for about one year, was the first man in the chamber who dared openly tangle with Jesse Jones, who, next to the president, is the most powerful man in Washington.

Though an unknown rookie to the country at large, Bunker is highly esteemed by his colleagues. He is one of the hardest working men on Capitol Hill. He personally dug up most of the sensational evidence on the Basic Magnesium contract. He has made only a few speeches, but when he does take the floor the senate sits up and pays attention. In population, Nevada is the smallest state in the Union, but it has a big voice on Capitol Hill in scrappy Berkeley Bunker.

Note: Deeply religious, Bunker was a Mormon bishop while serving three terms in the Nevada legislature.

Mail Bag.

J. H. L., Asbury Park, New Jersey—Reports from several sources appear to confirm the inefficient use of army trucks. A 5-ton army truck frequently is used to carry a package that the driver could put on the seat beside him. Five and 10-ton trucks sometimes are used for a couple of sacks of mail which could be carried in a motorcycle sidecar. . . . G. L., Los Angeles, Cal.—Admiral Kimmel is still on the payroll drawing retired pay, according to his rank. The charges brought against him have not affected his status in this respect.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Eddy Gilmore the Associated Press war correspondent, writing from Moscow the other day about Americans in far places being cut off from news from home, said:

"Suppose you didn't know whether American sidewalks are filled with uniforms; what the folks are talking about; whether the Rose Bowl game was played; whether there'll be baseball this year; whether there's rationing at home; do jazz bands still play; do the factories hum by night; what's happened to the dollar, are there blackouts . . . air raids?"

Down at the war department, two separate agencies are working night and day to see that Americans in far places in general and the soldier boys in particular get their answers to all those questions and thousands more as regularly as the clock rolls around.

IN THE Army radio division, under the supervision of Capt. Ed Curtin, "Command Performance," a weekly half-hour variety show that includes everything from the lullabies of Bea Wain and Dinah Shore to sportcasts by such as John Kieran and Ted Husing, are being sent from seven directional beam short wave radio stations to every army base we have outside the country. The shows are built around one of the big name shows on the air. Eddie Cantor, Fred Waring, Kate Smith, Tallulah Bankhead, Fred Allen, the Hit Parade and Kay Kyser already have starred, with a host of supporting talent. Even ringside recordings of the two final rounds each of the Louis-Baer and Louis-Simon fights.

From the Caribbean and Newfoundland, letters already are coming in from the boys with commands for this and that and the shows are being revamped weekly to meet the demand.

IN THE army morale division, under the direction of Maj. Gordon Hittenmark, they are "plattering" 50 hours of special entertainment, sportcasts, etc., which are to be flown to the various units for rebroadcast on the ground. Each unit moving into foreign bases was equipped with a special "radio kit" (long and short wave broadcast stations) and 25 hours of variety entertainment. One of the records in each kit gives the soldiers 100 phrases in the language of the country in which they are to be based—a service which any World War veteran who struggled with his French pocket dictionary in trying to order a meal will appreciate.

Later on, main sports events, resumes of the scores and standings in big league baseball, a dozen other things of interest to soldiers far from their native land will be included in these recordings. It may be possible to put whole world series games on records, for example, so that even if the boys missed a shortwaving from the radio box, they'll be able to get a clear, detailed play-by-play account of the games.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Calling It "Pinkie."

"Can you give me the origin of the word 'pinkie,' as we call the little finger? I think this is not modern slang."

Indeed it is not. We have "pinkie" from English and Scotch dialect, where its meaning was "small." It is said to have been a contraction for "pinkeny" which derived from "pink-nye," the "pink" meaning "small" and the "nye" being the equivalent of our "eye." As a matter of fact, that term was used to describe small eyes as well as the "little" fingers for which we use it today.

A Farmer's Diary

Time for Rest

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

ON OUR FARM, recreation is where we find it. My wife and I often find it pays to slip away for an hour from the work and the children, and get a new perspective.

The other afternoon—Easter Sunday, to be exact—we meandered up across our young orchard, stopping here and there to notice buds that began to unfold. Almost every young peach tree has survived its first winter, and promises new growth and a few blossoms.

We came to the dense chaparral below the woods—thick undergrowth of oak, sassafras, poplar and maple shoots on cutover land. Here we spread an old coat on a fallen, hollow log and sat to rest and plan a good use for this seemingly waste land. (In no time at all we had planted it to a grove of glossy nut trees.) I pulled the top of a sassafras shrub down about our heads and together we nibbled the buds for a sprightly taste of springtime.

The black and white pup, who had tagged along, stretched full length behind the log in the sun, on a bed of dry leaves, and sighed contentedly. We watched her, smiling—and knowing how she felt.

It was very quiet here. A gentle south wind blew. The sun shone warm upon the gray old barkless log. About us the thicket of slender sprouts made an almost impenetrable screen; a poplar tree towered above—above that, the hill. Far off, a mourning dove complained. Through a gap in the bushes, a glimpse of the valley showed, with its patches of vivid wheat, its winding roads, its neat white houses and its trickling streams.

Idly I dug my toe into the dirt beside the log. It was soft and black and webbed with tiny roots. The odor of freshly turned woods mold arose like incense. A thousand-legged worm thrust his nose out in surprise. A white grub came reluctantly to light. The little dog, scenting any stir in the earth, came around the end of the log and began to dig. She threw dirt away, then buried her black nose deep and inquiringly. With a half sad, disappointed look and a shake of her head that seemed to say, "You don't know where to dig," she went away and I saw her exploring a woodchuck's hole near by.

My companion, with some remark about moss and ferns, wandered on up the glen. I was left alone. The log was warm. I stretched full length upon it, with my cheek against the wood, and the sun on my back, I felt the beginning of tan on my neck and arms. I sprawled there, relaxed and content, for a delightful half hour. All week I have rested when I remembered it.

U. S. Generals Jap Prisoners

Capture of 15 general officers, including Maj. Gen. William P. King, left, commander of United States forces on Bataan, and Maj. Gen. Albert M. The Japanese claimed a total capture of 40,000 prisoners, including 6,700 Americans.

Scientists Still Seek Answer to Cause for Rust

PITTSBURGH —(INS)— Armed with a new laboratory weapon, scientists today are on the trail of an invisible saboteur which annually causes damage in excess of $200,000,000 to machines and practically all other metals.

This saboteur, which strikes in all climates, is, surprisingly enough, air. It does its damage through tarnish, rust and corrosion.

Dr. Earl A. Gulbransen, of the Westinghouse Research laboratories, said the new scientific weapon is a minute weighing machine so sensitive it measures its load in weight units of ten-billionths of an ounce.

"One thing we want to know in particular," the research chemist explained, "is just exactly what makes stainless steel stainless. If we can uncover this secret, we may be able to find some simple way to give ordinary steel and other metals the same protection against oxygen in the air."

"Our job of fighting rust is difficult," he continued, "because we are combatting a process of nature. Most metals occur naturally in combination with other elements, particularly oxygen."

Germany is reported to be using sound waves to locate schools of fish.

TIRE NURSING PAYS DIVIDENDS TO MOTORISTS

Here's Advice on How To Get More Mileage Out of Tires.

(By United Press)

DETROIT—There are two big questions on the lips of the men and women behind the wheels of America's 28,000,000 passenger cars.

First and foremost is: "What can we do to get more mileage out of our tires?"

Second is: "How long is this tire rationing program going to last?"

The desk of S. P. Thatcher, manager of the U. S. Rubber company's tire engineering and service department, is stacked with letters from motorists anxious for the answers.

"The first question is easy," said Thatcher. "In fact, we've been telling American motorists what to do to get more mileage out of their tires for 20 years. Until the rubber situation became serious, not many of them were really interested."

Here are the tips on what to do to get tire longevity:

Drive at moderate speeds; start and stop your car slowly; don't scrape or bump your tires against curbs; keep your brakes adjusted and your wheels aligned properly to avoid spotty tread wear; be sure your tires are inflated to the right pressure; and don't forget to cross-switch your tires, including the spare every 5,000 miles.

"If you cross-switch your tires every 5,000 miles," the tire expert said, "your tires will have had only 20,000 miles of wear by the time your car has traveled 25,000 miles. That means 5,000 miles of extra wear for each tire."

Question No. 2 is harder to answer. No one knows exactly how long the rationing program is going to last.

"We are approaching the problem," Thatcher said, "from the point of view that we may never get another pound of crude rubber from the Far East, which used to supply 90 per cent of the world supply. That means we must be extremely careful with our present supply."

There is a six-months supply of crude rubber on hand, but most of it has been assigned to war needs. Synthetic rubber production is being stepped up under government impetus, but current output could supply only a small percentage of the rubber required for normal civilian uses.

If you were lucky enough to buy tires and tubes before the rationing program became effective, Thatcher believes they can be stored for more than five years without suffering from deterioration.

But you must follow these simple rules:

Store them in a cool place—your basement; direct sunlight ruins them.

Cover your tires—not only to keep out light but to prevent air currents.

Don't pile your tires one on top of the other.

Tubes should be taken from their carton and barely rounded out with air pressure; don't leave them folded in the carton.

Store your tires on boards; keep them from contact with a damp floor.

And don't forget to mark down the serial numbers of the tires. If you do and they are stolen, police will have a greater chance of recovering them.

New York's uniformed police force was organized in 1844.

CHAPTER XXIV

"Look at me, Mr. Monaghan, I look like a tramp. I'll be a bum if somebody doesn't give me a job."

"Turner'll give you a job, if you'll take it."

"I'll take it."

"What are all your tony friends up on Union street going to say?"

Drake laughed. Mr. Monaghan was unable to sense the bitterness and humiliation and scorn in the sound.

"I'll get you a job, Drake. You can depend on me."

"Thank you—sir."

Drake arose. "I'm going home." He turned at the door. "If I get a job down here, I'm going to sell the place uptown. It's already mortgaged. Then I'll have a little bit of money anyhow. I'm going to come down here somewhere to live."

"And say—"

"You'll have to cut out likker."

"I won't drink any more. I promise."

"All right, son. We'll see how you do."

* * *

"Why, Drake! What are you doing here?" Randy came cheerfully into the room.

Drake flushed darkly. "Yes, I know how I look, Randy. I was in the calaboose last night."

"Drake! What did you do?"

"Drunk. I wasn't arrested. Sam Winters just—just locked me up so I wouldn't freeze."

"Oh, Drake!"

"It won't happen again, Randy. Your pa's going to get me a job of some kind."

Randy's glance veiled a little. It was a strange look—Drake didn't understand it. It was a far-away look, almost impersonal, but steady as a lamp set on stone.

"Go up stairs. I'll bring you some hot water. You wash and shave, and I'll fix you something to eat. Then you're going to bed and set some sleep."

"Aw—"

"Do as I say! I've got to talk to you."

Drake went heavily up the stairs. Mr. Monaghan knocked the ashes from his pipe. He had never quite known what to make of his tomboy daughter, but at this moment he felt that he understood her better. She looked exactly like her mother as she stood watching Drake.

Mr. Monaghan kept his word, and Drake kept his. Mat Turner, an old acquaintance of Drake's Uncle Rhodes, was reluctant at first. He didn't believe too much in the earnestness and sincerity of Drake's resolution, but Monaghan persuaded him. Drake was given a nondescript job as switchman, and general helper around the freight office. He never set foot in Fritz Bachman's lunchroom again, or took another drink.

The bank sold the Livingstone house, and Drake paid his debts. There wasn't much left but Drake put it in the bank and managed to live on his wages. He had a room at Mrs. Blake's railroad boardinghouse, and spent as much time with Randy as possible.

Drake lost his casual, laughing manner, and a part of his good looks was lost with it. He wasn't happy, and showed it. But he was healthier-looking. He had browned and reddened quickly into that lean, leathery, weathered appearance that railroad men always have, and which is peculiar to them.

He had never seen Louise Gordon again. The thought of her crossed his mind once in a while—a tingling anger mixed with a faint desire.

Drake was not ashamed of his job, or of the necessity that drove him to it, but he hated the thought of the talk which he was sure went on about him. He hated traintime because he hated to see anyone out of his former existence. Several times he had decided to write and tell Parris the whole story, now that the worst of it was over, but he put it off each time. He wasn't sure that the worst of it was really over. As soon as he arranged something else, and felt that he was on his feet a bit more securely—then he would write. It would amuse Parris, he was sure, to think of him really going to work. It would be a happy day when Parris returned. He wondered, the least bit uneasily, if Parris would want to come down here and talk to him and Randy. He wasn't sure how Parris might feel about Randy now that they were all grown up, but he put that doubt quickly aside. It was a disloyal thought Parris wasn't made out of the shoddy stuff of Kings Row.

He smiled happily to himself, slapped himself lightly on the thigh, and gave his head a sideways jerk. Just a little more than a year now and old Parris would be back!

"The twentieth century" was beginning to be a familiar phrase. At first it had a fabulous sound, like a connotation of some fantastic futurity. But one became a little accustomed to it as one learned to write 1900 and 1901 without too much hesitation. Now while it was pleasantly familiar to the ear, it still suggested a happy sense of progress and advancement.

The outward changes in Kings Row, taking place gradually as they did, were not too violent to disturb even conservative people much. Of course, if one stopped to think about it, a lot of things had happened. Trees gone from the courthouse square, and from Union street as far as the Methodist church. Lots of bright new paint and plate-glass store windows. Surprising, too, how many of the old houses had come down to be replaced with one-story "bungalows."

"A smart little city," Hart Sansome said. "As neat and bright as a pin."

"Looks like every town its size from Ohio to Kansas," Miles Jackson said. "You can't tell by looking around if you're in Indiana or Iowa. Looks like any town—and just as ugly."

But everyone noticed that since the death of his old crony, Colonel Skeffington, Miles Jackson was less acid, less violent. He had less to say about the "vanishing qualities of our pioneer forefathers."

Drake McHugh developed a bad cold and laid off from work for nearly a week. He spent most of the time with Randy.

One evening after supper he was on his way back to his boardinghouse. He took the short cut through the freight yards as usual. Bill Hockinson was running the switch engine, shifting boxcars for the early freight train the next day. Drake stepped off the track as Bill passed with a dozen empty flats. He waved and Bill shouted something that could not be heard above the rattle and clash of wheels rolling over the switches. He saw Bill waving frantically, and grinned. Some rowdy joke that wouldn't wait. . . .

Harley Davis, brakeman on the regular freight run to Camperville, slammed the door of the freight office open. Arnold Schultz, the freight agent, grabbed his blowing papers. "Say! What in the hell—"

"Quick, Schultz, get a doctor down here! There's been an accident out there. Get Dr. Gordon, quick as you can!"

"What happened, Harley?"

"Drake McHugh's been run over."

"Sure, sure. Right away." He rang the telephone and asked the central office to locate Dr. Gordon and send him right away to the freight depot.

"Is he cut up much, Harley?"

"Terrible. We got him out but he's unconscious, or dead—I don't know which."

"How about this old door? Think we could carry him on this?"

"The very thing. Come on."

"How in the world did such a thing happen, Harley?"

"A funny accident, Schultz. You know that wagonload of tile that's been standing up there on the edge of the cut for a week?"

"Sure, yes, belongs to the tile works. They're waiting for orders to ship it."

"Well, the bank thawed and the whole wagon fell down—"

"On Drake?"

WHAT CAN I DO?

Defend the Kitchen Front

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
Wide World Food Editor.

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth of a series of articles on how women in the home can help in this country's war effort.)

When your soldier or sailor boys roll into the old homestead on leave, they will enjoy being greeted by some of their food favorites.

Most service men get good nourishing food in the Army and Navy but they will be very glad to meet something new and snappy in culinary numbers.

There must be a full cooky jar in the house—and I suggest that you have a reserve hidden away. So here are some victory cookies that will be enjoyed: Cream together ½ cup butter and ¾ cup peanut butter, add 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs and ¼ cup cream. Beat 2 minutes. Stir in a cup raisins, 1 teaspoon each vanilla and grated orange rind, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon and 3 cups flour with 2 teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon soda mixed in. Chill dough, drop portions from tip of spoon onto greased baking sheets. Flatten tops with fork and bake 10 minutes in moderate oven.

JUMBO NUT TOPPED BROWNIES: Cream 1 cup fat with 2 cups sugar (save up sugar rations for this treat), add 4 beaten eggs, ½ cup cream, 2 teaspoons vanilla, ½ teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Add 2 cups flour and 1 teaspoon baking powder. Beat 2 minutes—clock this to make sure you do not under beat. Pour to thickness of an inch in shallow pan lined with 2 thicknesses of waxed paper. Sprinkle top with 1 cup roasted peanuts, pecans or sliced cashews. Bake 30 minutes in moderate oven—about 350 degrees F. Cool in pan, cut in 2 inch squares, remove and pack away in cooky jar or covered box

MOLASSES CRUNCH is excellent to have on hand for between meal snacks. Boil 1 cup molasses with ½ cup water, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ cup sugar and ¼ teaspoon salt until "chick ball" forms when portion is poured into cup cold water. Do not stir the mixture while cooking, but when it is done stir in ½ teaspoon soda, while foaming add 1 cup roasted peanuts and 4 cups freshly popped unsalted popped corn. Mix thoroughly and drop portions onto waxed paper. Let cool and pack in a box in cool place.

Add egg yolks one at a time beating well after each Add chocolate and blend. Add remaining flour in thirds, alternately with milk in halves beating very well after each addition Add vanilla Beat egg whites until they will hold up in moist peaks. Stir quickly but thoroughly into batter Bake in two greased 9 inch layer pan in moderate oven (350°F.) 25 minutes Spread Fluffy Seven Minute Frosting on tops and sides of cake using Bittersweet Coating on top of frosting, if desired

FLUFFY SEVEN MINUTE FROSTING

"The Authority on Authorities"

SHOWING HIGH CARDS

Bidding exactly one more than necessary to overcall the preceding bid is invariably, with fine players, a means of showing high card strength rather than length of suit. You have no basis for treating a bid of that kind by your partner as telling you that three cards would be satisfactory support for his holding. He may have only a four-card suit, and some other declaration may be better.

(Dealer West North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Dbl
Pass	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

By his utterly incorrect call of 4-Hearts, South gave his pair bottom score on this deal in the eastern championships The defenders got tricks with the heart A, 10 and 9, holding the declarer to exactly game.

At every other table 6-No Trumps got bid and made, although in most of these cases, East opened with 1-Spade

Where the bidding started as given above, South should have realized that North had made the strongest possible bid under the circumstances Instead of a minimum 2-Hearts over South's double, he had bid one more than necessary when he called 3-Hearts. This should have told South that North had about as near to an opening bid as he could possibly hold, in view of his original pass, so far as high cards were concerned.

South's best bid after that, if natural bidding was employed, would have been 6-No Trumps, which could have been made without any difficulty If the side was using any sort of slam convention to locate aces and kings, then South could easily have found out that North held two kings, and consequently must have had for his bid something else as between the two missing jacks and the two missing queens. With East's opening bid obviously shaded, South could be sure that his own tenaces were well placed over whatever intermediate honors East might hold.

Tomorrow's Problem.

What is the soundest bidding of this deal?

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, April 17.
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

Fairly fortunate and favorable auguries are noted in this day's astral configuration. There may be definite openings for success and fulfillments in many directions, with the benefit of cooperation from influential persons. And while this may give assurance to the credits or financial standing and promote the personal, social or public prestige and popularity, yet there are loopholes for illicit schemes, traps or pitfalls arising from some designing or intriguing sources. With prudence, thrift and integrity all should flourish.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a moderately progressive and prosperous year, with opportunity for gratifying growth and expansion although to no sensational degree Influential persons and friends assist to a security of the credit, business as well as social standing and prestige, although there are confusing, peculiar or sinister angles and intrigues to manipulate with prudence, integrity and sound judgment rather than hunches or gullibility. Be alert to imposters or tricksters.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

"THANK YOU," the man called Charles said, but while his voice was so controlled as his swollen lips could manage, I saw that his finger tips fairly dug into the sheet of paper Prof. Diswell had just handed him.

But he did not give the paper a careful, detailed study, as the old professor had done. He ran over it quickly, even avidly, then handed it back to the older man. And while I could tell nothing from his facial expression, I sensed something like relief in his reaction

"Can you make anything of it, Charles?" Prof. Diswell asked.

Charles Knows Bickett

"Not I," Charles replied quickly. "I never got farther than what you might call the A B C.'s of cuneiform writing. But I'm sure it's Jack's fist, all right"

"You know Jack, then?" I interposed breathlessly.

"Yes I know him," Charles answered "Or did know him," he amended quickly. "I haven't seen him or heard from him for about four months, not since we left Rio de Janeiro. We traveled that far together, but we came to the States on different ships"

"You mean that Jack is here in the United States now?" I queried, trying to keep excitement out of my voice, but failing miserably.

"I do not know," he said. "I know that he told me he was coming here on a ship which was to sail the next day after mine.

"Not that it makes any material difference to me," he went on, after a slight pause, "but naturally, I am worried about him. We were never close friends, but for a time we were co-workers, and there is always a bond between wilderness workers."

"And now that you have explained all that," Prof. Diswell broke in testily, "suppose you answer my question about going back to the house."

Charles looked at him thoughtfully for a second before answering, as if he were weighing the pros and cons of the question.

"I do not think it would be wise for you to go back there now," he said at last. "The place will be safe enough under guard, and you have everything you need with you. There will be any number of physicians within call as soon as you reach New York, and I strongly advise that you see one."

"I can tell better about that when I get there," the old man interposed obstinately. "I may be all right."

"Yes, you may," Charles assented, "but it wouldn't be a bad idea to check up on it. Then too, if you are anxious about Jack, I should think you would wish to talk to the father of Mrs. Graham." He hesitated, then put a question turning to me. "I believe that is the name?"

"Yes, that is my name." I told him, and wondered if my imagination were responsible for the impression that there was a momentary glint of amusement in the eyes of the old professor.

"There is a serious question involved in the turning up of this paper," Charles went on. "I know that Jack guarded every sheet of this cryptogram writing as if his life depended upon their safety. He never left them out of his keeping, and he had a hiding place for them when he had to leave the camp which he never revealed even to me or to anyone else. And he was not careless. If this one has turned up in this way, I am afraid it may mean—"

He did not finish the sentence. From the woods behind us came distinctly the sounds of shots from revolvers that were not equipped with silencers.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Brothers Reap Harvest In Jail For Wrong Crop

DALLAS, Tex.—(INS)—Two brothers—I. D. and R. E. Thomas—Ferris share croppers, today were sitting mournfully in a jail cell rueing the day they listened to a stranger sell them on the idea of planting a field of marijuana. And they'll be there for six months.

I. D. Thomas told Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson:

"Jedge, it all started when a Mexican gived me some seeds. He said plant them seeds and gib him half the crop. He said that stuff was good for asthma."

Thomas asserted that it seemed like a good business deal to him and that he and his brother planted the crop.

"De yield was powful good an' it didn't need no howin' like cotton. In fac' Judge, we didn't chop it none."

And guess who were their first three customers. You're right: A Texas ranger and two federal narcotic agents.

COUNTERFEITING ON THE DECLINE

PHILADELPHIA—(U.P.)—Counterfeiters here apparently have turned patriotic since the United States entered the war.

Secret Service agents reported a marked decrease in the number of spurious bills and coins in circulation during the past two months.

In January alone, the amount of counterfeit money seized here was less than $300, or about half the total confiscated a year ago.

Acting Supervisor Frank B. Arnold said he believed the counterfeiters have turned their talents to defense work.

WIN DIRECTED DECREE IN CASE

Shelby Store Operators Held Not Responsible For Woman's Injury.

A directed verdict for the defendant was returned yesterday in a $10,000 damage suit in common pleas court while another case involving a $200 down payment on a property in Shelby was dismissed before it went to the jury.

James B. Scott and Clara O. Scott, who operate a store in Shelby, were the winners in an action in which Elizabeth Horning of Shelby sought $10,000 damages for injuries she allegedly received when she fell on an icy pavement in front of the defendants' store. Trial of the case was carried over from Tuesday.

Attorneys J. V. Will and Theodore Lutz represented the plaintiff, and the law firm of Beam and Beam, Mansfield, and Attorney William Morris of Shelby were counsel for the defendants.

In the case which was dismissed because allegations contained in the petition were not pertinent to the case, Katie M. Stiving asked $200 from the Sutter Furniture company as the payment she allegedly made on a property in Shelby. She contended the deal did not go through and she was entitled to recover her payment.

GEN. JOHNSON:

This is Gen. Johnson's last column, written only a few hours before his unexpected death early Tuesday morning in Washington.

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—Among all the serious problems about which there has been more loose talk and less hard thinking in the nation's capital, the subject of the optimum work-week stands out as a lugubrious example.

Congress has held hearings, inter-agency committees have discussed, labor has cussed, and been cussed, and yet not one of Washington's bureaucratic magna cum laudes has properly defined the problem.

Gen. Johnson.

The mere fact that they have not done so almost leads me to feel that maybe the thing isn't as obvious as it would appear. The bright lads are failing to see the noses on their own faces.

They have cluttered up their thinking with so many charts, curves, and graphs that the war finds them hopelessly entangled in their peacetime maxima and minima, to the exclusion of a few simple facts.

At a recent press conference the president stated that studies made after the last World war in Great Britain, as well as in the United States, indicated that, week after week, more goods were turned out in a 48-hour week schedule than in any other.

I wonder if the president is familiar with the latest report on the British experience.

Over there, due to the rapid and enormous expansion of the armed forces, the shortage of labor already has reached that truly critical point which we will not reach for some months to come. So the British have stopped dilly-dallying and have grappled with the problem in its entirety.

Their labors have brought forth the only scientific study of the work-week that has been made in this war in the form of a pamphlet called "Hours of Work, Lost Time and Labour Wastage." This report was made by industrial physicians with full consideration for both the health of the workers and the necessity for huge production upon which the British national existence depends.

Its conclusions avoid the dogmatic and pontifical tone which has characterized statements made in this country. Common sense tells us that any given work week, like 48 hours, even though it may be best for one job is certainly not best for all jobs.

While reaching a definite conclusion, the British did not place strict limits on the optimum work week, but settled upon an elastic range—from 60 to 65 hours for men and 55 to 60 for women.

Let's apply a little ordinary horse sense. In a freely-operating, peacetime economy, every good business man strives to turn out his product at the lowest possible unit cost. That means he'll try to get as large an output as possible per hour from the labor for which he must pay — and that's sensible.

It permits labor to function at a high rate of output per hour, draw a good income, and still have lots of free time.

But now we are at war, and must forego the luxury of using a man's labor only when it functions most productively: we must also use that portion of the tail end of the week during which, it is true, he may not turn out as much per hour, but in which, it is equally true, he turns out a quantity of material that would otherwise not be produced.

Less per hour, perhaps, but more per week, per month, and per year. That is the crux of the matter.

A 40-hour week may permit a man to turn out eighty machine gun barrels, or two every hour. A 55-hour week may yield 100 barrels, or only 1.8 per hour.

This means a less productive work week, if we are considering hourly output, which we could only afford to do if we had all the skilled labor we want.

If we aren't, then the fact remains that for the week as a whole, we have twenty more machine gun barrels. And brother, we need them

REFINERIES ARE ASKED TO POOL EFFORTS IN WAR

Association Head Would Step Up Output of Derivitive For Synthetic Rubber.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — Oil refineries must pool their efforts to develop the most economical way of producing the petroleum derivative used in making synthetic rubber the president of the National Petroleum association declared today.

Producers ultimately will follow a standardized formula in making the enormous quantities of liquified gas needed to turn out the 700,000 tons of synthetic rubber a year asked by the government, W. N. Weber of Chicago predicted as he arrived here for the semi-annual meeting of the association he heads.

Each refinery now is producing limited amounts of the synthetic rubber base by its own methods, he said. Most of these processes are expensive.

Standard Oil company of New Jersey is expected to release soon its process for manufacturing synthetic rubber, and it is possible this may provide the key to cheaper output, Weber added. This company recently was criticized by the senate defense investigating committe for sharing the process with Germany.

Weber expressed the opinion undue importance was attached to the agreement between Sandard Oil and a German chemical trust, asserting "anything is likely to look more attractive to us if the Germans have it." Other synthetic rubber formulas have been used on a small scale, but successfully, for several years in this country he continued

During the senate investigation, Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold declared Standard's process was cheaper and better than any the Nazis had.

Weber also said the government now has "a better over-all picture of the oil situation than the industry has, and the industry should follow it out."

He referred to a government proposal that refineries in the midwestern area make less gasoline and more fuel oil.

UP and DOWN THE STREET

The calendar may still say its only spring but members of the Mansfield police department are convinced that summer is here. Anyway, they've asked Police Chief Thomas M. Bell to advance the date for changing over to summer uniforms. Usually, police doff leather puttees and heavy winter uniforms on May 1 but this year they're going to change over on April 20.

Mansfield area Boy Scouts are sticking their chests out a little farther today, with reason. Floyd Dent, area scout executive, received a letter today from Bryce C. Browning, secretary-treasurer of the Muskingum Watershed Conservancy district, commending scouts for their excellent work in the tree-planting project at Johnny Appeseed Memorial forest. The letter stated that Harry Curtis, farm manager for the Conservancy district, visited Charles Mill dam this week and had reported that the job was not just a good one but that it was "the best job of tree-planting he had ever seen."

The train wreck yesterday morning on the Baltimore and Ohio road near Plymouth created a problem for school officials at Plymouth and Harry Sir Louis, county schools attendance officer. A number of pupils played hookey from the Plymouth school to go to the scene of the wreck, Supt. E. L. Bailey reported. Called to investigate, Sir Louis found every boy and girl gone when he arrived at the wreck scene. Supt. Bailey reported at least a hall dozen failed to return to school in the afternoon.

Most first aid students find that learning how to administer artificial respiration and apply traction splints is a big enough job to master alone without trying to execute it in unison. But six Mansfield Senior high school girls are going to show how easy it is to apply first aid in synchronized fashion when they give a demonstration in rhythm at the county-wide Junior Red Cross reveille Saturday at John Simpson Junior high auditorium. The girls trained for the demonstration with Bernard C. Hardy, Red Cross first aid director.

SEEKING DATA ON COSTS IN DANGER AREAS

Governor Declares Check-up Doesn't Necessarily Mean He'll Call Legislature.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — Gov. John W. Bricker, harried by increasing demands from financially-pressed local governments for civilian defense funds, revealed today he has tried to determine the financial needs of 60 "danger areas" in the state.

In the last month, Bricker has been urged several times by Ohio cities and counties to call a special session of the legislature to aid in apportionment of at least a part of the state's surplus for civilian protection. Only two weeks ago he reiterated emphatically his stand against a special session.

"About 10 days ago I asked authorities in 60 vital areas of the state for a comprehensive report of their incomes, expenditures and proposed projects on which any additional state-aid funds would be spent," Bricker said. 'So far Cleveland is the only city that has replied."

He said he asked local governments to give in detail their expenditures so far this year, an estimate of expenditures for the remainder of the year, and "an exact account of defense projects" on which additional funds would be spent Local governments also were asked to compare expenditures for the present year with last year's expenses and to list any possible new sources of income.

"The mere fact that I asked for this information does not mean that I intend to call a special session," Bricker said. "When I get complete reports from these areas then I will decide whether or not a special session would be justified."

The governor has contended that "civilian defense and the guarding of bridges are local matters and should be financed locally barring any pressing disaster or emergency."

Bricker revealed he had received a new request for a special legislative session. He said he had received a letter from Lorain County Prosecutor William G. Wickens asking that state laws governing the sale of tax delinquent land forfeited to the state be relaxed to permit easier sale of "millions of dollars worth of land."

Wickens contended that revision of the laws would enable local governments to "weather increased financial burdens for the duration of the war," Bricker said.

In the single response to the governor's request for financial statements, William A. Stinchcomb, director of the Cuyahoga county defense council, estimated "conservatively" that Cuyahoga county would need nearly $525,000 for defense activities during this year.

YOUTH HELD IN BRUTAL SLAYING

Police Find Slashed Body of Girl 'Witness' In Washington Flat.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A sportily-clad Washington youth today was held for the brutal murder of a girl tentatively identified as Miss Madeline Matthes, 25-year-old member of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Washington police said that Richard A. Wilhite, 17, confessed the crime after the girl's horribly slashed and beaten body was found last night in his mother's apartment where she had gone yesterday in carrying out her church work.

Lt. Jeremiah Flaherty of the homicide squad said that part of the girls' clothing had been ripped off and indications were that she had been criminally attacked.

Flaherty said that Wilhite made a confession in writing about two hours after he reported "trouble" at his home to a police station and then accompanied investigators to the apartment where they found the body.

As far as could be determined, police said, the girl had entered the apartment house during the afternoon, carrying a portable phonograph which members of her group use to help propagate their religion. The phonograph was found in the Wilhite apartment.

Springmill Man Accused of Molesting Woman.

Charged with molesting a female, Orville Corbin, 44, of 465 Springmill street, was arrested late yesterday by Mansfield police.

When arraigned in municipal court this morning, Corbin asked the court to state "more clearly" the charge against him, contending that the affidavit filed against him was not worded correctly. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch instructed City Solicitor L. K Wagner to amend the wording and continued the case until tomorrow at 9:30 a. m.

Corbin was arrested after a Geddes street housewife identified him as the man who allegedly attempted to force her into his car at the point of a gun Monday night on North Mulberry street.

The housewife told police that her dog had frightened the man away Police said she identified Corbin yesterday after police had taken him into custody.

Revue Showing at Ohio Gets Ready For Tour of Camps

Mansfield saw one of the musical revues now being whipped into shape for later appearance at U. S. O. centers throughout the country last night when the all-girl production, "Platinum Blond Revue," opened at the Ohio theater.

Edith Rogers Dahl, the blond entertainer who won headline attention when she appealed to General Francisco Franco of Spain to save her husband, Harold Dahl, from the firing squad, gives "name" to the show and acts as mistress of ceremonies.

Referring to the Franco incident during the performance, Mrs. Dahl said in appealing to Franco she "only did what any other woman would have done." She didn't personally see the general, she said, but she wrote him a letter and inclosed her photograph. Dahl, an aviator fighting for the Spanish Loyalists, was released and is now an instructor in the Royal Canadian Air force.

In addition to directing the show, Mrs. Dahl leads a 15-piece girls' orchestra, plays the violin and looks very decorative in three complete changes of costume that are flattering to her platinum blond make-up.

The show carries a sensational young acrobatic dancer in the person of Ruby Ring; a comedy team, the Dawn Sisters, who have been on the variety stage for years, and a number of other acts including Winnie May, a novelty juggler.

U. S. O. centers will start seeing the revue in May. The company came here from Lorain and after its final performance in Mansfield today goes to Portsmouth.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Mansfield's two rookie ball players in the two major leagues appear to be doing all right for themselves this bright opening week of the 1942 diamond season.

Steve Gromek with the Cleveland Indians and Johnny Barrett with the Pittsburgh Pirates are officially tabbed in this week's Sporting News as the outstanding rookies of their teams.

Gromek shares the Cleveland honor with Hurler Red Embree, but there's no question at all on Barrett's status at the top of the Pirate heap of youngsters.

Here's what Charles J. Doyle of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph writes in the Sporting News regarding Barrett, the former Mansfield Red Sox outfielder and slugger:

When the Pirates' training season began more than six weeks ago, a flock of rookies blazed such a trail they had Frank Frisch groggy, and he still is baffled by the problem of disposing of his excess recruits.

Johnny Barrett, hard-hitting and swift-moving outfielder up from Hollywood of the Pacific Coast league, was among the galaxy of fleet ball hawks and strong-armed hurlers that made up the impressive freshman brigade, but the New Englander was not the No. 1 rookie by any means.

* * *

Yet, if you asked Frisch to name his top-notch recruit today, there is no doubt that he would point to Barrett, although he would think about Johnny Wyrostek, Culley Rickard and other new players. For example, Pete Coscarart is doing his first baseball tricks in a Pirate uniform, and it would take a lot to get him away from Frisch.

* * *

Barrett has done everything like a star. As the Pirates went into the last week of their training season, Johnny was hitting approximately .400 and his base running was something delightful to behold.

In fact, it is not stretching the facts to state that the youngster was the spark plug of the spring for the Frischmen.

That's all of Mr. Doyle on Mr. Barrett, but on the same page Ed McAuley of the Cleveland News has a few words to say about Steve Gromek, the old Mansfield Braves' shortstop, turned twirler.

McAuley points out that while the slugging Les Fleming, and Outfielder Oris Hocket and Catcher Otto Denning have been impressive, "if you want to tab a youngster who seems genuinely likely to fit into Boudreau's plans for a rebuilding process which will reach its climax in 1946, take your choice between Charles (Red) Embree and Steve Gromek."

* * *

He says Gromek's mound delivery features a blazing fast ball, but he also knows how to mix 'em up. And both boys have that all-important asset—poise in the pitcher's box. Qualified commentators are agreed they can't miss.

TAKES OLD JOB

WESTERVILLE—(AP)—Prof. R. F. Martin today was back again at his old job as baseball coach of Otterbein college. He succeeds Sam Selby, who has entered the navy.

Al Milnar Faces Tom Bridges

Boudreau Goes After Edge in Tiger Series.

DETROIT—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians have exactly the same American league standing today as they had at the finish of last season — tied with Detroit for fourth place.

That the Tribe intended to advance today was evident when Manager Lou Boudreau named veteran Al Milnar to pitch the third and final game of the series here. Tommy Bridges, dean of Tiger hurlers, and rookie Hal White were picked to oppose him.

Boudreau used a rookie battery against the light-hitting Tigers yesterday, and the Tribe came out on the short end of a 6 to 2 verdict, held to seven hits by right-hander Dizzy Trout.

Hurler Ray Poat, Lou's teammate at University of Illinois and fresh up from the Three-Eye league, was chased from the mound by a two-run uprising in the fourth inning of his first game in the major leagues. Poat yielded eight hits, and Detroit got three more off Tom Ferrick and Harry Eisenstat.

The Indians' offense was weak. Ken Keltner got Cleveland's first hit after two were out in the fourth. It became the first run after Jeff Heath walked and Les Fleming singled to center on the first pitch.

The Redskins' other run came in the eighth when Fabian Gaffke, pinch-hitting for Ferrick, singled to center. Roy Weatherly grounded to short but Gaffke reached third on Oris Hockett's long single to center. It was the rookie outfielder's second hit of the day. Gaffke scored on Trout's wild pitch.

TYGERS STAGE FIRST TWILIGHT MEET

Coach Harry Mehock of the Mansfield high school track squad believes his twilight track meet at the Stadium field Friday at 7 o'clock with Sandusky's Blue Streaks will be the first of its kind in Ohio this spring.

Other schools are planning the twilight affairs, taking advantage of the daylight saving time, Mehock reports, but most of the dusk events are scheduled later in the season.

The Sandusky meet has been designated as "Dad's Day" and a special effort is being made to get a crowd out for the event.

Association Opens Today

Columbus Red Birds Booked At Indianapolis.

(By Associated Press)

Only two days after the start of major league baseball play, the opening salvos were fired today in the American association.

A veteran Class AA circuit which weathered one world war and planned to carry on in a second one in accordance with President Roosevelt's "go ahead" letter to Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis, the association in its 41st year consists of the same eight teams which have been members for four decades.

Columbus, winner of the association race, the playoff title and the little world series last year, started this year's campaign at Indianapolis. Both teams had new managers, Eddie Dyer replacing Burt Shotton at Columbus, and Gabby Hartnett, former Chicago Cubs catcher and manager, succeeding Wade Killifer at Indianapolis.

Toledo was scheduled at Louisville, St. Paul at Milwaukee and Minenapolis at Kansas City in the other openers today.

The Kansas City Blues have a new manager, Johnny Neum, who took over the post held last year by Bill Meyer, and St. Paul is the fourth club to operate under a new boss, Harry (Truck) Hannah, who succeeded Ralph (Red) Kress.

All-Star Service Team Lined Up

NEW YORK—(AP)—Members of baseball's advisory council went into another huddle today amid enough gold braid to indicate that a game between a major league all-star team and the best players of the nation's armed forces might be added to the summer diamond menu.

* * *

The game would be played July 7 in Cleveland's Municipal stadium, just 24 hours after the annual all-star game between the picked teams of the two major leagues in New York.

Both dates, as well as the sites, were selected yesterday when Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, President Will Harridge of the American league, and President Ford Frick of the National league, the council members, opened their two-day conference.

In addition, the council decided that both games should be played at night in order to get as large crowds as possible. Both will start at 9 p. m., Eastern War Time.

Army and navy representatives were scheduled to sit in on today's discussion, indicating that the often-suggested contest involving a service team might be on the fire.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.,

NEW YORK —(World Wide)— The war Larry MacPhail figures it, the Giants' and Dodgers' contributions to army and navy relief may amount to as much as one-third of the whole season's profits. . . . They're each giving the entire "take" of a game against the other, which ordinarily would be $20,000 to $25,000, and Larry figures a club that clears more than $75,000 above all expenses is rolling in dough. . . . Eddie Ainsmit, who used to catch Walter Johnson, has been appointed athletic director at the Republic Aviation plant at Farmingdale, N. Y., and Tex Carleton, the old National League pitcher, will handle a similar job at the new Consolidated Bomber plant at Fort Worth.

Floyd Heads City Softball

Elected Commission Head, Three Leagues Set.

J. E. Floyd, personel manager of the Humphryes Mfg. Co. was named president of the Mansfield softball commission at a meeting held at the Y. M. C. A. Kenneth Ross, veteran softball player was named vice-president and Don Cram, of the Y. M. C. A., secretary and treasurer.

One of the most important items confronting the commission will be the seating of commission members, according to Floyd. Each park and each of Mansfield's industrial plants are permitted one representative on the commission.

The commission voted to sponsor three leagues this year unless interest in the game warrants another league. The Church league will play on Monday evening, the Industrial league on Wednesday with the Independent league on Friday. Players will be permitted to play in all three leagues, but they must live or work in Mansfield to be eligible for league play. Players must work at their respective industrial plants to be eligible for the Industrial league.

The commission voted to increase the entry fee for all leagues to $20 per team to cover the increase raise in sporting equipment.

All entry fees and entry blanks must be in the hands of the secretary by Friday, May 1 and the leagues will officially get underway the week of May 10.

The commission also voted this year to play the split season with the winners of the first round meeting the winners of the second round for the league title and then at the close of the season some arrangements will be made to play a City championship series.

Entry blanks can be secured at the Y. M. C. A. office.

Rookie Outfielder Makes Hot Start With Ott's Giants

By JUDSON BAILEY
(AP Sports Writer)

The rookie who has made probably the flashiest debut in the major leagues this year is Willard Marshall, an unheralded outfielder of the New York Giants, whose story is one of baseball's strange interludes.

* * *

He bashed a terrific belt into the upper rightfield stands at the Polo Grounds for a home run with the bases loaded to beat the Brooklyn Dodgers' 6-4 yesterday, and fans began wondering who he was and where he had been.

The big, rangy youngster has been in organized baseball only two years—both of them with the Atlanta Crackers of the Southern Association. As a kid fresh out of Wake Forest college he was something of a sensation his first season, getting 14 home runs and batting .314 in 1940.

Every major league club was interested in him and Earl Mann, the astute young president of the Crackers, very firmly placed a $50,000 price tag on his prize. Furthermore he wanted real money and not a collection of castoff players with mythical values and as a result the bidding suddenly ceased. Marshall stayed at Atlanta in 1941.

His second time around Marshall's batting average dropped to .276 even though he stepped up his home runs to 21. Atlanta put him on the market again last winter but this time there was no eager waiting list. Brooklyn turned him down for $20,000. The reason was that Marshall had become susceptible to the draft—turned 21 just three days before the registration in February.

Finally the Giants took him to camp on a basis of no down payment and $30,000 if they kept him. Mel Ott took a quick look at the recruit in Miami and made him a regular outfielder.

Another New York club collected a dividend on a big investment yesterday at Washington, where Joe DiMaggio led the Yankees to a 9-3 triumph over the Senators.

DiMaggio wangled a contract for $42,000 out of the world champions last month to become the highest salaried player in baseball. To show why he is worth it he hit his first home run of the year with two on in the fifth and added a double and a single to drive in a total of five runs. This assault spoiled the return of Washington's prodigal pitcher, Buck Newsom.

Another important home run was delivered by a rookie trying to make good—Shortstop Vernon (Junior) Stephens of the St. Louis Browns. He connected with two aboard in the ninth inning at Chicago to whip the White Sox 6-5.

Rudy York homered with one on and Paul (Dizzy) Trout hurled seven-hit ball as Detroit crushed Cleveland 6-2, and Joe Dobson pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 3-1 victory with a six-hit job on the Philadelphia Athletics.

* * *

In the National league the St. Louis Cardinals turned the tables on the Chicago Cubs 4-2 as Harry Gumbert distinguished himself with a four-hit pitching performance. The Pittsburgh Pirates solved Elmer Riddle with a five-run raid in the first inning and won 6-2 on six-hit pitching by Lloyd Dietz. The Boston Braves punished the Philadelphia Phils by the same score with Jim Tobin hurling a steady eight-hit game and hitting a two-run homer.

Reds Already Stuck In Rut

Failure to Hit Hurts Cincinnati's Chances.

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Cincinnati's Reds are trying their darndest to get out of the rut that ruined their chances of winning last year's National league pennant—losing the first four games — but so far they're half way into it.

Manager Bill McKechnie is calling on either Gene Thompson or Johnny Vander Meer to keep the Pittsburgh Pirates from taking three games in a row. Luke Hamlin is the Pirate pitcher tday.

Yesterday's 6-2 defeat by the Pirates was additional evidence that the Reds still can't hit when it counts. They left nine men on the bases and for the second day in a row.

Max Butcher gave them seevn walks in the opener and Lloyd Dietz seven more in the second game, enough to lose three or four contests, but the Reds could not hit in the right spots.

The Pirates had Elmer Riddle, the National league's best 1941 hurler, ducking in a hurry. He let in five runs before Ray Starr could stop it in the first.

Dayton Holds Up Receipts

And Townsend Wants to Close Cage Books.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—Short items from the Ohio sports front—mostly of the "so what?" variety:

H. R. Townsend, state high school athletic commissioner, is waiting — and impatiently — for the financial and attendance report of the Dayton district cage tourney. All the others—more than 100 of 'em—are in, and the commissioner would like to close the books.

The commissoner, incidentally, took time off from his high school athletic chores yesterday to attend a sale of white-faced bulls at the state fairgrounds. He has a farm or two near Hamilton, to which he will retire when he gives up the commissionership in a year or two.

Peter Wellman, "angel" for the $5,000 Mahoning Valley Open golf championship, tentatively scheduled June 25 to 28 at the Mahoning Country club, Youngstown, will give 50 per cent of the gate profits to the Red Cross.

Up at Toledo they're trying to line up Bing Crosby and Bob Hope for an Army-Navy relief fund golf match to crack open the annual Inverness four-ball matches scheduled early in June. The field for the round-robin, with such stars as Ben Hogan, Jimmy Demaret, Chick Harbert, Byron Nelson, Sam Snead, Horton Smith Henry Picard and Lawson Little, stacks up with the best the feature has ever offered.

There's a rumor floating around Northeastern Ohio that Jim Robinson, Canton Lehman high school, prexy of the Ohio High School Coaches Association, may be added to Paul Brown's Ohio State grid staff next fall. And down around Hungtington, W. Va., they are saying Johnny Brickles, former New Philadelphia mentor, may be the guy to get the buck job left open when three of Brown's helpers joined the navy.

Kenny Strobel, Blanchester high school pitcher, entered baseball's hall of fame this week when he hurled a no-hit game against Hillsboro's Indians. Only one thing was wrong—Strobel and his Blanchester mates lost the game—2 to 0. Three errors, a hit batsman and a fielder's choice gave the Indians their two markers in the disastrous fifth.

Jimmy Strausbaugh, fleet-footed half-back for Ohio State during Francis Schmidt's regime is in the army now. He was inducted this week at Fort Hayes. In 1935 he was the State's leading high school grid scorer with 25 touchdowns, 17 extra points and three field goals for a 176 total.

Portsmouth high school has moved to cut athletic costs during the war. Football Coach Willard (Peg) Ellsesser has been ordered to slash his varsity to 25, his reserve team to the same number, and to use only available equipment in outfitting freshmen. On out-of-town trips the varsity squad will be held to 22 members. Track and baseball have been discarded in favor of intra-mural softball.

Buck Coaches Do Their Bit

Four Former Mentors Help Navy Program.

By PETE ZURLINDEN

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—(AP)—Four former Ohio State university coaches head the Buckeye delegation leaving the U. S. naval academy April 18 for active duty as directors of the navy's gigantic V-5 physical training program.

With 200 other coaches and past athletic stars, they completed three weeks of a 30-day indoctrination course in navy life. Next month the Ohio representatives will commence the task of whipping approximately 30,000 naval air cadets into condition to withstand the rigors of advanced flying courses.

The Buckeyes' three-week drills consisted mainly of 15-hour days.

With only Saturday afternoon and Sunday liberties, the coaches participated in the navy's ascribed "rough and tumble" drills; marched many hours with heavy Springfield rifles on their shoulders; attended numerous lectures on naval customs and habits, and learned to distinguish a "focsle" from a bowsprit.

Leading the O. S. U. group—and one of the most enthusiastic over the V-5 setup—is Larry Snyder, conditioner of such track greats as Jesse Owens and Alex Sentman. The others are Coach Paul Brown's 1941 football aides Fritz Heisler, Trev Rees and Eddie Blickle.

Other prominent Ohioans commissioned include Nevin Budd Cox, Bowling Green university swimming coach; R. W. Fisher, assistant grid coach at the University of Cincinnati; W. G. Houghton, Brown's successor at Massillon high; E. J. Adams, Akron, former Ohio State boxing champion; Art Kirkland, St. Clairsville, whose Shadyside high wrestling teams have won eight Buckeye scholastic titles, and L. W. Gift, Medina.

Another familiar ex-Ohioan is here as a representative of Connecticut. He's Jim Langhurst, former Buckeye backfield great, until commissioned, a football coach at Wesleyan college.

Present plans call for the Ohioans to report at the University of Iowa, the navy's midwestern pre-flight school, where Maj. Bernie Bierman, U. S. M. C., is athletic director.

Bivins Rates As Contender

Cleveland Fighter Gets Second Place.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Billy Conn and Bob Pastor, the two fighters tentatively scheduled to tangle with Joe Louis before the coming summer ends, are listed as the "logical contenders" for the heavyweight championship in the national boxing association's new quarterly rankings.

* * *

Conn, who went 13 rounds with the bomber last June and is scheduled for a re-match in June or July in New York this year, remained at the top of the list. Pastor moved in to the select set through his victories over Turkey Thompson, Lem Franklin and Booker Beckwith.

* * *

Chief changes in other divisions found Jimmy Bivins, Cleveland negro who recently outpointed light-heavyweight boss Gus Lesnevich, moving into the challengers' set among the 175-pounders along with Billy Soose, Booker Beckwith and Ken Overlin; Tony Martin of Milwaukee joining Georgie Abrams as logical contenders for Tony Zale's middleweight crown; Charley Burley of Pittsburgh and California Jackie Wilson ranked among leading welterweight challengers, Allie Stolz, Newark youngster who meets Sammy Angott for the light weight crown May 15, moving up to a contender's spot in that division, and Charley (Lulu) Costantino, New Yorker unbeaten in 55 professional starts, skyrocketing among the featherweight contenders.

The leading rankings in each weight class, as announced by NBA President Abe Greene and Fred Saddy of Milwaukee, chairman of the championship committee.

Heavyweights—Champion, Joe Louis; logical contenders, Billy Conn, Pittsburgh and Bob Pastor, New York.

NEWARK—(AP)— Twenty-four schools headed by Springfield's defending champion Wildcats, will compete Saturday in the third annual Newark high school relays at White field.

Unless Cleveland East Tech is a last-minute entry, the Cats from Clark county will be odds-on choices to repeat. Last year East Tech tied Cleveland Heights for the state championship, with Springfield in the next spot. Transportation problems may prevent entry of the Cleveland teams.

Columbus North, 1940 winner of the Newark event, was smothered 97¾ to 25¼ by Springfield last week.

More than 500 athletes are expected to compete Saturday, with junior high half-mile relay teams augmenting the 24 senior high squads. Director Clifford E. Orr said he expected several late entrants by Friday's deadline.

Already entered are Lorain, Columbus East, Columbus Central, Mechanicsburg, Canton McKinley, Chillicothe, Lima Central, McConnelsville, Akron North, Columbus South, Columbus North, Columbus West, Toledo Waite, Marietta, Toledo DeVilbiss, Dayton, Roosevelt, Springfield, Mansfield, Union-Furnace, Lancaster, Dover, Alliance, Circleville and Newark.

Springfield had a 10-point victory margin last year, scoring 56½ to second place Columbus Central's 46½. Preliminaries in Saturday's meet start at 10 a. m. with the finals at 2 p. m.

(End advance for pm's of Thursday, April 16, moved April 15).

Tyger Freshmen Gridders Shine

Coach Paul Snyder of the Mansfield high school football squad was well pleased with his freshmen, or junior high gridders today after a practice session at Galion yesterday.

Although no regulation game was played; the score, for all practical purposes, was 6-6. Snyder's freshmen drove for a touchdown, with Mike Zivkoff scoring on an 8-yard off-tackle smash, but the Tyger reserves of last year saw Galion go 60 yards in two plays to tie the score.

The Tyger first team goes to Marion for a practice session tonight, and the freshmen will scrimmage with Madison high Monday.

DISCOVERS EXPLOSIVE WHILE EXPERIMENTING WITH SILK

(By International News Service)

LIMA, Peru.—The quest of a cheap substitute for silk—prompted by a run in a Peruvian housewife's stocking—today was credited with discovery of a new explosive, stronger than dynamite and almost as powerful as TNT.

Called Yabardita after the name of its discoverer, the explosive still is in the experimental stage after two years of laboratory work, but the inventor believes it will turn out to be one of the most devastating explosives yet produced.

Senor Manuel Yabar Garcia, an engineer graduated from Purdue university and the Tri-State College of Engineering of Indiana, is an expert on gunpowder and explosives for the Peruvian War Ministry.

He claims he developed Yabardita quite by accident. He had experimented with over 200 kinds of prickly pear in his search for a silk substitute. During one such experiment, the substance he was working on blew up, wrecking the laboratory and injuring the inventor.

Under the supervision of the War Ministry, encouraging experiments have been made with hand grenades and small bombs, employing Yabardita. Post explosion residue is said to be extremely low and so is wear on rifle bores when it is used in shells.

The inventor is confident that he can raise Yaradita's nitration percentage considerably above its present 22 per cent, thereby lifting its explosive power, now about three per cent lower than that of TNT.

Several important "bugs" need smoothing out before Yabardita can be accepted as a standard explosive fit for industrial and war purposes. Stability is the main unsolved problem. The inventor claims difficulties in this respect are due to a lack of proper technical equipment.

Yabardita is composed of nitrocellulose, 70 per cent; nitro glycerin, 5 per cent; nitrated sugars, 10 per cent; nitrated resins, 10 per cent, and other nitrated compounds, 5 per cent.

Yabar plans to visit the United States to make use of facilities needed for the type of experiments he is engaged in.

Youth, 9, Helps War Effort by Fattening Pigs

GOLIAD, Tex. —(INS)— Nine-year-old Raymond Toerck, a (Goliad farm boy, has his own ideas about how he can help win the war. After surveying the possibilities open to one with his particular qualifications, he decided that the most helpful thing he could do would be to produce food for the army and put any profit from the enterprise into defense bonds.

Armed with character testimonials from friendly 4-H members, Raymond walked into the farm security administration's local office and asked for a loan of $9.00. He then shopped about until he found a farmer with two pigs which would meet his requirements and traded his borrowed money for the pigs. Four months later Raymond sold his pigs, which he had fattened from "little squealers" into 190-pound hogs, for $35.40. A neat profit of $26.40 was left over after repaying the loan to the government. Of this he invested $18.75 in a defense bond and used the remainder of the money to buy another pig.

What does he think about our war strategy? He just feeds his pigs and turns the profit over to the government.

The American Women's Voluntary Services has given instruction to more than 80,000 women of the United States recently.

SODAS WANTED UP IN ICELAND

So Woman Sends to Chicago For Ice Cream Equipment.

CHICAGO—(INS)—It has been axiomatically difficult to sell electric fans or refrigerators to the Esquimos, but here is a woman today who proposes to sell ice cream in Iceland.

She is Mrs. Elizabeth Jensen-Brand of Thingvellir, Iceland. She wrote the Chicago Association of Commerce asking complete equipment for a soda fountain.

The explanation: American soldiers squiring the Icelandic girls around miss the good old soda fountain as a "hangout."

RITES FRIDAY

The Mansfield Kiwanis club will hold its Ladies' night party at 7 p. m. Friday in the Mansfield-Leland hotel ballroom.

Music and other entertainment will follow the dinner. Members who plan to have guests at the party were urged to notify S. H. Campbell or Carlton S. Fernyak, club secretary.

Illinois Winners

Winners in the Illinois senatorial primary are Representative Raymond S. McKeough, top, who won the Democratic nomination for United States senate and United States Senator C. Wayland Brooks, bottom photo, who won the Republican nomination to succeed himself.

ARMY ELIGIBLES TO BE RELEASED

TOPEKA, Kan.—(AP)—Several hundred convicts held in the state penitentiary may be released if it is found they are eligible for army service, according to Frank W. Boyd, chairman of the state board of administration.

Boyd said his office was examining a list of about 400 prisoners to determine whether they are eligible for service in the armed forces.

Those who may be dismissed must be first offenders, must have served the minimum portion of their sentences and must be physically fit, Boyd said.

About 10 youths recently paroled from the state reformatory at Hutchinson have enlisted in the army, Boyd said.

Y.M.C.A. TO SEND EIGHT TO PARLEY

The Mansfield Y. M. C. A. will send eight delegates to the seventeenth annual Young Men's conference at the Ohio area Y. M. C. A.'s which will be held at the Hotel Carter in Cleveland, April 25-26.

Smeltzer, who is vice-president of the Ohio Area Young Men's Council, sponsors of the conference, will preside at the dinner meeting on Sunday.

In most of Latin America the school year begins in April or May and ends in November.

Best for Juice and Every use!

-means best for lunch boxes, too!

These oranges were "made" for lunch boxes—and between-meals or bedtime eating!

They are seedless—as only Navel oranges are. They peel in a jiffy and separate cleanly into wonderfully firm and juicy sections!

They have the rich California juice also—with more vitamins C and A, and calcium in every glass. Plus vitamins B_1 and G for good measure!

For eating, for juice, for every use—be sure to get California Navel Oranges. Those stamped "Sunkist" on the skin are the finest from 14,500 cooperating growers.

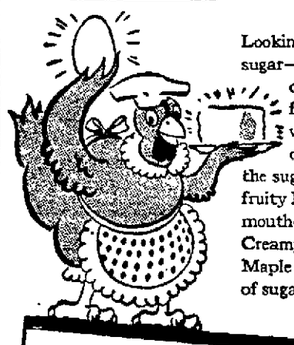
Delicious One-Egg Cake and 4 SUGARLESS FROSTINGS TO VARY IT!



Looking for ways to save your precious sugar—and still enjoy a fresh-baked cake on occasion? Lady, you've found them! Right here are four ways to do just that! Measure out just ⅔ cup of sugar and put the sugar bowl away. Then make up a fruity Raisin Nut Cake . . . or a simply mouth-melting Fig Layer Cake . . . a Creamy Chocolate Square . . . or a rich Maple Cream Layer Cake! That ⅔ cup of sugar covers everything!

THE CAKE!

ONE-EGG CAKE

⅓ cup shortening
⅔ cup sugar
1 egg, well beaten
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
⅔ cup light corn syrup
1 cup milk
2 cups cake flour
2½ teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
¼ teaspoon salt

Cream shortening well; add sugar slowly; beat in well. Add egg and vanilla; beat until well blended. Blend syrup with milk. Sift together dry ingredients. (And do use Royal Baking Powder. Now, more than ever, you can't risk wasting ingredients on cake failures. Royal's steady action makes light, tender cakes. And since it is made with cream of tartar, a pure fruit product, Royal never leaves a bitter taste.) Add dry ingredients alternately with liquid to first mixture. Bake in 2 greased 8-inch layer pans in moderate oven at 375° F. about 25 minutes. Or (for Creamy Chocolate Square) in greased 8-inch square pan in moderate oven at 350° F. about 1 hour.

THE FROSTINGS!

1. RAISIN NUT FROSTING: Beat 1 egg white until stiff. Slowly add ¼ cup light corn syrup, beating constantly. Add ½ teaspoon vanilla extract, ¼ cup chopped seeded raisins, and ¼ cup chopped pecan meats. Spread between layers and on top of cake. Sprinkle top with an additional ¼ cup each chopped raisins and chopped nuts.
2. FIG FILLING: Cook 1 cup chopped dried figs with 1¼ cups water and 1 tablespoon lemon juice about 20 minutes, or until soft. Add 2 tablespoons butter; cool. Put between layers.
3. CHOCOLATE CREAM FROSTING: Beat 1 egg white till stiff. Add ¼ cup light corn syrup slowly, beating constantly. Add 1 square unsweetened chocolate, melted, and ¼ teaspoon vanilla extract. Beat until well blended. Use on square cake.
4. MAPLE WHIPPED CREAM: Whip 1 cup heavy cream until it begins to thicken. Slowly add ¼ cup maple syrup and continue beating until stiff. Put between layers and over top and sides of cake. Sprinkle top with chopped walnut meats.

2—Card of Thanks

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need.

HIGHER PRICES ATTRACTED BY STOCK LEADERS

But General Market Trends Prove Uneven; Volume of Building Rises.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Stock market trends were uneven in today's dealings with several leaders attracting fractionally higher bids.

Imporved were Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Lowe's, Union Carbide and International Harvester. Montgomery Ward, Western Union and Westinghouse were among slightly lower issues. General Motors and U. S. Steel were unchanged on the initial transactions.

Followers of business trends noted the compilation of engineering news-record showing construction volume for the past week at $148,577,000, a rise of 142 per cent over the corresponding period last year but down 40 per cent from the previous week.

Private construction topped the preceding week but dipped 20 per cent from the 1941 period. Public building was down 42 per cent from a week ago but ran 174 per cent ahead of last year.

SAYS FIGHTERS HAD A PICNIC

Commander Describes Easy Picking on Spectacular Philippine Raids.

he sent his heavy bombers toward Manila last Sunday.

The American fliers got an enemy transport near Batangas, on southern Luzon, while another bomber crew sought out Japanese cruisers and destroyers near Corregidor. Not finding any enemy war vessels this crew went on to Nichols air field and bombed it.

The same morning, Royce related, he sent medium bombers to the island of Cebu to bomb Japanese transports and escorts in nearby waters.

Sunday afternoon half of the bombers returned to Cebu while the other half went to Davao on Mindanao. The next morning transports and installations at both Cebu and Davao were successfull bombed.

The only American bomber lost on the expedition, Gen. Royce explained, was one which had been grounded for an engine change. It was smashed by a lucky direct hit during a Japanese raid.

The commander of the assault explained that he did not participate personally in the various attacks but maintained contact by courier plane.

Three flying fortress ships and 10 speedy B-25 attack bombers took part in the Philippines raids during which eight Japanese ships were blasted and airports and troop concentrations bombed.

Gen. Royce said his men operated a total of 48 hours and made four heavy raids during that period. He said:

"We hit 'em hard and went on to bomb docks, transports and warehouses. It was one of the best hours of our very pleasant picnic."

He spoke highly of the performance of the B-25 bombers. They were met by heavy anti-aircraft fire on all their missions while toward the end of the raids the desperate Japs kept steady patrols in the air in an attempt to intercept the Americans.

After only a brief period of sleep last night Royce appeared at headquarters the first thing this morning and immediately began conferring with staff members.

Brig. Gen. Royce, who volunteered to lead the mission, Lieut. Col. John Davies, of Piedmont, Cal., pilot of Royce's plane, and Capt. Frank P. Bostrom, flying fortress commander, received distinguished service crosses upon their return to Australia.

REPORT SALES TAX NECESSARY

lieved to have led him to decline to ask for even higher taxes than the treasury originally proposed, although many "inner circle" advisors are known to favor such a step.

Meanwhile, it was announced that public hearings on the record tax bill, which started last March 3, will finally come to an end tomorrow evening. After this it was said there will be "from three to six weeks" of executive hearings before the committee is ready to present a bill to the house.

Purpose of Morgenthau's bringing the General Motors officials before the committee, it was agreed, is to help stimulate the sale of bonds and to spread the system under which business firms agree to deduct sums from payrolls to make it easier for workers to buy bonds.

While most legislators up to now have not favored a compulsory savings plan, Sen. Taft, (R., O.) member of the senate finance committee, said today that such a plan may have to be considered.

"If voluntary bond selling campaign does not go better, I am willing to consider a compulsory savings plan," he declared. "Sales of $1,000,000,000 a month are not enough to avoid the necessity of selling bonds to the banks."
